Snow And Cold Create Problems

By CRAIG ALLISON
Herald Staff Writer

Webster's New Third International Dictionary defines snow as "a small tubular and columnar white transparent often with branched crystals of frozen water that are formed directly from the water vapor of the air at a temperature of less than 32 degrees fahrenheit and belong to the hexagonal system of crystallization."

Translated to regular terms, this means colder temperatures, additional costs, overtime hours, slippery roads, and a multitude of other problems.

With the recent snowfalls and the energy picture with cutbacks by natural gas companies, the entire picture takes on a new look.

How does the cold weather affect area residents both directly and indirectly? A good place to start would be with the road service crews that are usually the first persons out on the roads to fight the little white crystals.

The area's State Highway Garage on Highland Ave. reported to the Herald that so far this winter they have spread approximately 1500 tons of salt on their zone's state and National highways. Superintendent Carroll Reid noted that the state department didn't use that much salt in all of last winter. Reid reported that new orders for salt are delayed because of the situation on the Ohio River, where ice conditions have impeded the progress of salt barges. Deliveries of two or three tons at a time are not really sufficient, but according to Reid the department is not out of salt yet.

County Engineer Henry McCrady stated that his department uses a mixture of salt and sand on all roads that come under his control. So far this winter the men in the red dump trucks have used 200 tons of salt and approximately 1167 tons of sand on their routes throughout the county. Authorities at the county garage at High St. and Island Rd. have stated that they are "real fortunate" in getting orders of bulk salt the same day or the day after placing an order. Like their counterparts in the state highway department, the men of the county road services have been on the roads almost constantly since severe weather struck the area last week.

Atwood Jones, Circleville's Director of Public Service, told the Herald that approximately 250 tons of salt have been used on city streets to date this winter. According to Jones, during the pay period from Jan. 6 to Jan. 12, the 10 men of his department logged 74.25 overtime hours in addition to the regular 40 hour week. Payroll cost for the overtime amounted to $447.13. During that pay period, 90 tons of salt were used on the streets.

Jones stated that the service department headquarters on E. Ohio St. are somewhat unique, in that not much storage room for salt exists. Therefore the salt is used almost as soon as it is delivered if the weather is as of severe a nature as the past week's.

Fortunately, according to Jones, the city does get pretty good service on salt delivery as compared to other departments.

While streets and roadways are in such treacherous condition, area law enforcement agencies urge motorists to use extreme caution and increase the following distance behind other vehicles. Perhaps the best solution to hazardous driving would be not to venture out at all if there is no need for you to do so.

With the snow and sleet, naturally, comes temperatures that are usually very cold, but it is not news to anyone in this area that temperatures this January are running markedly lower than normal. According to Herald weather records, during last January, there was one occasion when the thermometer dipped below zero degrees Fahrenheit. Already this month, with January barely half over, there have already been three nights and early mornings when the mercury read below zero. The coldest of those was Thursday morning when the official temperature was recorded at minus 14 degrees.

Adding an additional twist to the temperature picture are the natural gas curtailments by utility companies.

Much space and time has been devoted in the news media recently to school closings because of gas curtailments. In checking with the four school districts in Pickaway County, the Herald found that none of the districts are contemplating an immediate shutdown, but all administrators stated that it is not an impossibility if the situation would change.

Fritz Jacobs, Superintendent of the Circleville City Schools, stated that the temperature in city classrooms is kept as much as possible in the area of 66 to 68 degrees, but that exact temperatures are almost impossible to hit consistently when such factors as body heat and the room's heat conduction capabilities are taken into consideration. Jacobs has stated that he and his staff feel that this is not unreasonable, and they have informed parents within the district of the measures that have been taken. Students have been asked to dress warmly and perhaps take a sweater to school with them. Jacobs has stated to the Herald that while he is not trying to de-emphasize the situation, he feels that it is best not to panic. According to Jacobs, with the steps taken by the school system, and if the energy situation does not drastically change, he feels that the Circleville City School system will be able to make it through the bad weather without further serious problems.

Chamber Sponsors Safety Services

SAFETY SERVICES — John Leist, center, explains the equipment used in his multi media first aid course to Gary Gephart, left, and Ed Bohenko. Under the direction of the chamber of Commerce, Leist is teaching the course to interested employees of local businesses and industries. Bohenko, chairman of the chamber's safety committee coordinates the class along with Gephart, who heads the safety council.

Through the past year, the Safety Committee of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce has done numerous services to improve safety in Pickaway County. The main objective of the group is to conduct group meetings with representatives of local businesses and industries for information on safety.

The committee, under the direction of Ed Bohenko is continuing its interest in the County's Disaster Services program and have met with the newly appointed director, John D. Leist.

Leist has held a first aid course at the General Telephone offices to provide knowledge and skills that are needed for the emergency care of the injured until a physician arrives. The ten-hour course generates an interest in the prevention of accidents through the elimination of their causes.

The committee also formed the Safety Council, which is funded by the state's Safety and Hygiene Commission. The council has met monthly at the Chamber office under the chairmanship of Ed Farynowski.

During 1976, this group sponsored two sessions of "Safety Training for Ohioans" at the Pickaway Ross Joint Vocational School. The committee is now under the direction of Gary Gephart.

The Chamber's safety committee has also reviewed traffic problems in the North Court Street shopping area. Because it is in both the city and county jurisdictions, the matter was referred to the County Engineer. Attention was also given to the train derailments and the traffic control boxes on Main Street.

In the multi-media first aid courses taught by Leist, students are given on-the-spot training in the two-night course. Ten hours are dedicated to first aid. There are 20 film segments, 17 practice sessions and 13 workbook lessons. The demonstration films present a brief lesson on the skills, then the practice sessions follow up on the procedures just observed.

COMMON SIGHT — Area residents have had ample opportunity to view the big snowplows during the past week. While all crews have worked overtime, they have mainly concentrated on keeping roads plowed open. Near zero temperatures have rendered salt nearly ineffective when it is spread on the roads.

Carter Staff Setup Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's White House will take a four-pronged approach to running the government, using a shrunken staff without a designated chief.

Carter set aside time at his home in Plains, Ga., today to work on his inaugural speech. He had but one appointment, with Gerald R. Ford, who put together his television commercials during the presidential campaign.

Carter aides here and in Plains announced the names of his top White House aides Friday and outlined how they will operate the executive office. Six of the seven top aides, including Press Secretary Jody Powell, are Georgians.

Freeze Death Responsibility Widespread?

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Preventing the tragic death of Eugene J. Kuhn, who was found frozen to death this week, would have taken "the personal involvement of everybody," a social worker said Friday.

"The utilities can't do it by themselves," said Ruth Strong, Richland County welfare director. "We can't do it by ourselves, and the neighbors and family can't do it by themselves."

Kuhn, described as a "man who didn't want looking after," froze to death after his electricity was cut off for nonpayment of an $18 bill.

"I'm not sure there is anyone to blame," Miss Strong said.

She said the welfare department had services available to help Kuhn but was never asked.

Ohio Edison said it complied with a new state law requiring the company to notify customers before stopping their power. "Unless we became a social agency," Ohio Edison couldn't have done more, a spokesman for the utility said.

"There might have been a little more neighborliness rather than nosiness," said a niece, who already cares for her bedridden mother, Kuhn's sister and only other relative.

Kuhn, a German immigrant, carpenter and retired factory worker, was buried this week in Mansfield Catholic cemetery, leaving others to consider how his life should have been saved.

If neighbors speak up about the elderly, who like Kuhn are sick and need help, perhaps the welfare department could respond, Miss Strong said.

If the department is informed before electricity is cut, rather than after as the law requires, it would have more time to act, she said.

If relatives, like Kuhn's sister and niece, speak up, there are all types of programs to feed and protect the elderly, she said.

Powell announced in Plains that:

—Hamilton Jordan, 32, associated with Carter since 1966 and his campaign director, will be assistant to the president to "act primarily in the area of political advice and activity."

Powell said Jordan "would be to some extent" Carter's administrative assistant, making him the closest thing to a chief of staff the incoming president will have.

—Stuart Eizenstat, 33, the Carter campaign's issues director and a principal author of the Democratic platform, will be assistant to the president for domestic affairs and policy.

Eizenstat has been Carter's issues adviser since his 1970 campaign for governor of Georgia.

—Jack Watson Jr., 38, who directed planning for the Carter administration during the fall campaign and coordinated transition planning after the election, will be assistant to the president for governmental relations and Cabinet secretary.

Watson's job will include liaison with state and local governments.

—Frank Moore, 42, who was Carter's liaison to the Georgia legislature, will serve as his liaison with Congress. Moore was southern coordinator of the Carter campaign until midsummer, when he set up a liaison office with the House and Senate.

—Robert Lipshutz, 55, a prominent Atlanta attorney and treasurer of the Carter campaign, will be counsel to the President.

—Margaret "Midge" Costanza, 44, vice mayor of Rochester, N.Y., and co-chairperson of Carter's New York state campaign, will be assistant to the president for liaison with special and public interest groups.

Watson told reporters in Washington the White House will work this way:

ROUNDTOWN

TICKETS for the Distinguished Service Award Banquet sponsored by the Circleville Jaycees may be purchased from any club member or by calling 474-7048 or 474-4645.

The banquet, which honors outstanding citizens in Pickaway County, will be Monday, Jan. 31, at the 4-H and Grange Building, Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Speaker will be Ohio Attorney General William Brown.

ALL the snow plowed from the roads to the side creates problems for rural mail carriers and Herald tube route carriers. There were days this past week when many roads were blocked by the snow. Now that most roads are clear, the mail boxes and newspaper tubes have been blocked by the snow plows.

1. Zbigniew Brzezinski, head of the National Security Council, will be in charge of White House involvement in foreign and defense policy. He will deal with the president and secretaries of state and defense directly on some matters of national security.

2. Eizenstat will be in charge of "pre-law" concerns — formulating domestic policy and proposing programs and legislation to carry it out. When states and local governments are involved, he will share Watson's role of liaison with governors and mayors.

3. Watson will be in charge of "post-law" concerns — spot checking how existing programs work and whether legislation on the books is being enforced; "trouble shooting ... (and) crisis management" when necessary, and coordinating "communication between Cabinet members and between the secretaries and the president."

U.S. Tops Russian Agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the government's leading experts on the Soviet Union says that while Russia has made progress in farm production in recent years the United States is still "far ahead" in terms of agricultural efficiency.

Fletcher Pope Jr., an Agriculture Department analyst, said the United States uses its farm inputs far more effectively in turning out crops and livestock.

"The Soviet Union lags far behind in agricultural inputs of fertilizer and equipment," Pope said. "The Soviets use about 57 per cent as much nitrogen per acre of arable land and about 64 per cent as much phosphate."

Pope's analysis was published Friday by the department's Economic Research Service under the title, "Agriculture in the United States and the Soviet Union."

The report updates one issued in 1973, Pope told a reporter. He said the years used in the new report cover 1971 through 1975, which represent the Soviet Union's time frame for its ninth five-year plan for agriculture. The previous report spanned 1967-71.

Pope's report said that the United States produces much more meat, eggs, fruit, corn and soybeans, but that the Soviet Union leads greatly in wheat, rye, barley, milk, potatoes and sunflower seeds.

Aside from how the Soviet Union manages its agriculture, including the amount of inputs, there is one unmistakable advantage the United States has over Russia: farm land suitably located in terms of climate.

Snow And Cold Create Problems

The banquet, which honors outstanding citizens in Pickaway County, will be Monday, Jan. 31, at the 4-H and Grange Building, Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Speaker will be Ohio Attorney General William Brown.

ALL the snow plowed from the roads to the side creates problems for rural mail carriers and Herald tube route carriers. There were days this past week when many roads were blocked by the snow. Now that most roads are clear, the mail boxes and newspaper tubes have been blocked by the snow plows.

1. Zbigniew Brzezinski, head of the National Security Council, will be in charge of White House involvement in foreign and defense policy. He will deal with the president and secretaries of state and defense directly on some matters of national security.

2. Eizenstat will be in charge of "pre-law" concerns — formulating domestic policy and proposing programs and legislation to carry it out. When states and local governments are involved, he will share Watson's role of liaison with governors and mayors.

3. Watson will be in charge of "post-law" concerns — spot checking how existing programs work and whether legislation on the books is being enforced; "trouble shooting" when necessary, and coordinating "communication between Cabinet members and between the secretaries and the president."

U.S. Tops Russian Agriculture

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the government's leading experts on the Soviet Union says that while Russia has made progress in farm production in recent years the United States is still "far ahead" in terms of agricultural efficiency.

Fletcher Pope Jr., an Agriculture Department analyst, said the United States uses its farm inputs far more effectively in turning out crops and livestock.

"The Soviet Union lags far behind in agricultural inputs of fertilizer and equipment," Pope said. "The Soviets use about 57 per cent as much nitrogen per acre of arable land and about 64 per cent as much phosphate."

Pope's analysis was published Friday by the department's Economic Research Service under the title, "Agriculture in the United States and the Soviet Union."

The report updates one issued in 1973, Pope told a reporter. He said the years used in the new report cover 1971 through 1975, which represent the Soviet Union's time frame for its ninth five-year plan for agriculture. The previous report spanned 1967-71.

Pope's report said that the United States produces much more meat, eggs, fruit, corn and soybeans, but that the Soviet Union leads greatly in wheat, rye, barley, milk, potatoes and sunflower seeds.

Aside from how the Soviet Union manages its agriculture, including the amount of inputs, there is one unmistakable advantage the United States has over Russia: farm land suitably located in terms of climate.

The 4-H project, Mulligan Stew, has been completed by eight of the nine elementary schools in the county with the ninth to finish in the spring. The project was taken by all fifth grade students in these schools. They watched a series of six films, completed their workbooks and made individual projects concerning what they had learned.

Mulligan Stew is a 4-H project on nutrition. The members learned the four basic food groups, planned menus, learned about nutrition and the key nutrients. They learned breakfast is the most important meal of the day and why. The main thrust of the project is to teach them to eat four servings of bread and cereal, four servings of fruits and vegetables, three servings of milk and two servings of meat every day. They learned why foods that are high in sugar and carbohydrates are not as good for you as foods that are high in protein, vitamins and minerals.

Each member did his own project and was asked to explain to the 4-H Agent or Program Assistant what he had learned.

The students at Washington School went beyond what the project called for and cooked a Mulligan Stew lunch. They made figures of the main characters of the films and composed a Mulligan Stew game to re-enforce their learning process. As Mrs. Akers and Mrs. Ramsay stated, this project could and was related back to all the other subjects the students were taking at the time. Math was taught by calculating the number of pounds of ingredients it would take to make enough stew to feed 70 people. Science was taught through talking about the human digestive system and how the food gets to each cell of the body. Health was taught by talking about human nutrition and the main themes of Mulligan Stew. Art was used in making the characters figures and the game. Music was taught by using the Mulligan Stew songs. Reading was taught by allowing the students to read their Mulligan Stew comic books. You can see it covered a wide variety of subjects.

The youth who did an outstanding job at each school were presented outstanding of the day awards. This was based on the knowledge they expressed to myself and Cathy Schoby and on their project.

Less Beef, Higher Prices

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Beef supplies will drop and prices will rise in 1977, predicts Herbert Hadley, Extension Livestock Marketing Specialist at The Ohio State University. The amount of beef available per person is expected to drop from 125 pounds in 1976 to about 121 pounds in 1977.

"Sell fed cattle when they reach grade," Hadley advises Ohio cattlemen. Feeding to heavier weights increases supplies, depresses fed cattle prices, and increases feed costs."

The total number of cattle slaughtered in 1977 may drop 4 to 5 percent below the 1976 level. This is because fewer grass fed cattle will be marketed and the number of cows slaughtered will also be down.

Average slaughter weights may increase by 1 or 2 percent this year due to a higher proportion of fed cattle being marketed. But, the weight increase will be limited since feed is relatively expensive and grading changes favor lighter weight animals. Beef imports will remain about the same.

Cattle prices during the first part of the year are expected to rise. From January through June, choice steers weighing 900 to 1,100 pounds in Omaha may be in the mid-40's price range. This compares to an average of $39.80 per cwt. during this same period in 1976.

Cyclical conditions such as large marketings, drouth, etc. will probably cause cattle prices to "tail off" during the latter half of the year.

Prices for feeder cattle will reflect slaughter cattle price trends. If corn prices decline and fed cattle prices exceed $45 per cwt., the improved feeding prospects will quickly show improved feeder cattle prices. Feeders weighing 500-700 pounds will bring about the same prices as lighter weight calves.

Feedlot operators will want to buy calf pounds cheaply if feed costs exceed prospective fed cattle prices. There may be a wide variation in the price of steers and heifers because a higher number of heifers are expected to go into feedlots rather than be used as replacements.

Farm Women

CHICAGO (AP) — More women are taking an active interest in managing farms, but the male-dominated farm organizations are not yet willing to treat women as equals, according to Jim Thomson, editor of Prairie Farmer, a national farm magazine.

"Are farm organizations ready to treat women as equals? Not so you would notice it, but some changes may be in the wind," he said in an editorial. "Farm organizations have traditionally had boards of directors that were 100 per cent male. If women were considered, it was for an auxiliary organization. They never really were considered equals."

"With farming becoming more of a business that involves someone handy with a pencil and a calculator, more women are taking on this chore. Modern law has adapted to the idea that the wife owns half the farm. She co-signs the loan, balances the books, and drives the tractor."

Thomson says the magazine's polls indicate that men have a stronger interest in farm management than women have in general, but there are many women with a stronger interest in farming than some men.

Ohio Certifies Pesticide Applicators

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Today, we live with pesticides. They are used primarily to produce food and to protect the food once it is produced. To be safe living with pesticides, their use must be accurate and carefully controlled. To assure this, Ohio law requires certification of pesticide applicators before they can apply "restricted use" pesticides. EPA is in the process of designating which pesticides will be for "restricted use" only. So far, a partial, unconfirmed classification list indicates several pesticides, used by farmers, will be on the "restricted use" list.

The Ohio Cooperative Extension Service and the Ohio Department of Agriculture are cooperating in an expanded educational and certification program involving the proper use of pesticides, says David R. Miskell, Associate State Leader, Agriculture Industry, The Ohio State University. Three categories of pesticide applicators are involved, he says. These are private, commercial, and limited commercial. The Cooperative Extension Service is responsible for the educational training, while the examination, certification and regulatory phases are the responsibility of the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

For the convenience of farmers, county agents will conduct county schools for private applicators interested in field crops — corn, soybeans, small grain and forage crops, Miskell says. Private applicators interested in the specialized categories will receive training at the regional schools taught by Extension Service specialists. Specialized categories include field vegetables and specialty crops, fruit crops, ornamental and turf crops, greenhouse crops, forest crops, livestock and livestock buildings, non-cropland, stored grain, aquatic, and seed treatment.

Ohio law defines "private applicator" as a certified applicator who uses or supervises the use of any pesticide, which is classified for restricted use, for purposes of producing any agricultural commodity on property owned or rented by him or his employer, or on the property of another person, if applied without compensation other than trading or personal services between producers of agricultural commodities. Private applicators need to be certified by October 21, 1977, in order to apply "restricted use" pesticides.

"Commercial applicator" means a certified custom operator, a certified public operator — whether or not he is a private applicator with respect to some uses — who uses or supervises the use of any pesticide on property other than that provided by the definition of "private applicator." Commercial applicators need to be certified and licensed by March 1, 1977, in order to apply any pesticide.

"Limited commercial applicator" means an individual other than a private applicator who limits his pesticide application activities, including supervision of use to his own property, to that of his principal employer and who has been certified as competent by the director (of Agriculture) to apply restricted use pesticides in those certain categories specified in his certification. Limited commercial applicators need to be certified by October 21, 1977, in order to apply "restricted use" pesticides.

Effective dates for certification are (1) commercial applicators, March 1, 1977, and (2) private applicators, October 21, 1977. All current licensed commercial applicators will need re-examination as follows: Those licensed in 1971, 1972 and 1973—by March 1, 1977; those licensed in 1974, 1975 and 1976—by March 1, 1978. Commercial applicators must be certified and licensed to apply "restricted use" or "general use" pesticides. Private applicators need to be certified only if they apply "restricted use" pesticides.

The Pickaway County private applicators school will be held on February 2 and 9, at 7:30 p.m., at the Senior Citizens Center (old Children's Home). The tests will be given on February 11, at 1 p.m. All types of tests can be given at this time, but for commercial permits the person taking the test must advise the Ohio Department of Agriculture that they would like to take the test at Circleville on the February 11 date.

Trials Show Soil Moisture Important To Soybean Yields

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Soil moisture available for plant growth and development is extremely important in soybean production, says Gordon J. Ryder, Extension Agronomist at The Ohio State University. This is particularly true during the late flowering and pod-fill period in late July, August and early September, he explains.

Total rainfall during the growing season is often misleading, Ryder continues. Distribution of the rainfall is more important to soybean yields. It is difficult to measure the genetic potential of a soybean line if moisture is a limiting factor.

Ryder, together with James E. Beuerlein, agronomy agent at the Mt. Gilead Extension Area Center, and A. F. Schmitthener, professor at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, conduct the Ohio Soybean Performance Trials, to which seed companies submit soybean varieties for trial. In 1976, 18 seed suppliers submitted 74 soybean varieties for trials at the South Charleston plots, 80 varieties for the Hoytville plots and 56 for the Vickery plots.

At South Charleston, total rainfall from May through September was about 4 inches higher than the 80-year average. This rainfall was spread fairly evenly throughout the season, and yields were as high as 67.6 bushels per acre, with most in the 60's, the lowest being 54 bushels per acre.

At Hoytville, rainfall was about 4 inches below the 80-year average, with yields mostly in the 40-bushel-per-acre range. Only a few were in the low 50's or high 30's.

At Vickery, rainfall was about average, but yields were much lower than the other two locations. However, Ryder reports that weather and rainfall were such that an excellent infestation of Phytophthora Root Rot provided an ideal situation to evaluate resistant soybean lines to Race 1 and Phytophthora Root Rot tolerance to Race 3 and 6. So far, scientists have found no soybean varieties that are resistant to Race 3 and 6.

A killing frost on September 22 marked the third consecutive year for a killing frost 2 to 4 weeks earlier than the long-time average. This plus cooler-than-normal temperatures during August and September probably accounted for the earlier maturing entries (those maturing in less than 130-days) yielding as high as the later-maturing ones, according to Ryder. Phytophthora Root Rot reduced yields some in the heavier soils at both Vickery and Hoytville.

More details of the trials, comparing 1976 data with earlier years are in the publication, "Ohio Soybean Performance Trials - 1976," Agronomy Department Series 212, available at the County Extension Office, 137 W. Franklin Street, or by calling 474-7534.

Aussie Wheat May Compete On Markets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Improved prospects for the wheat harvest in Australia is providing further evidence that the United States will have at least short-term competition in the world grain market.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that Australia now is expected to harvest about 389 million bushels of wheat this season, with most of it available for export.

Although the Australian crop is expected to be short of last year's 437 million bushels, the latest estimate reported by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service is nearly one-third more than was forecast last August when drought appeared to be a threat.

That means Australia will have considerably more wheat available for export than would have been the case had its crop been hurt more severely by dry weather.

The U.S. wheat stockpile has grown dramatically because of recent bumper crops and could rise to more than one billion bushels left over in the inventory next June 1 when the 1977 harvest is ready.

Other wheat competitors, including Canada and Argentina, also have large supplies they want to sell abroad. Thus, competition for those markets will intensify in the months ahead.

The wheat export situation is one of many sensitive issues facing the incoming Carter administration and Secretary of Agriculture-designate Bob Bergland, himself a wheat grower from Minnesota.

New Farm Feed Grain Allotments

Farms without a feed grain allotment may have an allotment for the 1977 program established if they meet eligibility requirements.

An application for a new farm feed grain allotment must be filed with the county ASCS office at 1440 N. Court St., by February 15, 1977.

Feed grain allotments for 1977 are automatically established for all eligible established feed grain farms. The new farm provisions apply only to farms that do not have an allotment.

To be eligible for a new farm allotment:

1. Neither the owner nor the operator of the farm may have an interest in any other farm that has a feed grain allotment established for 1977.
 2. The operator must expect to obtain more than 50 per cent of his 1977 income from farming.
 3. The farm for which an application is filed must be suitable for feed grain production without undue erosion.
- Any interested producer who can meet these requirements should contact the ASCS office for an application by February 15th.

Auto Sales Get Boost January 1-10

DETROIT (AP) — The pace of domestic car sales during the first 10 days of 1977 got off to its quickest start in four years. Retail deliveries rose 21 per cent from the year before.

The nation's four automakers reported Thursday total sales of 143,771 cars during the Jan. 1-10 period, compared with 136,008 during the same period last year.

The percentage increase is based on the daily rate because there was one less selling day in the 1977 period.

The daily rate of 20,539 — compared with 17,001 at the start of 1976 — was the highest since the record year of 1973, when the tempo was 23,602. The period record of nearly 29,000 cars was set in 1966.

Ford Motor Co., which suffered sales declines last fall due to a four-week strike, showed the sharpest gain at the start of 1977, with a 34 per cent jump on a daily rate basis.

Chrysler Corp. sales rose 22 per cent and General Motors Corp. posted a 17 per cent improvement. However, small-car specialist American Motors Corp., beset by a severe slump for more than two years, remained in a downside with a 17 per cent decline.

Ford Vice President Bennett E. Bidwell said the industry's sharp sales gains from a year ago reflected "increased poststrike availability, continuing strong customer interest in larger cars and a general market upturn for new vehicles."

GM sold 78,392 cars in the period this year, up from 76,695 a year ago; Ford sold 42,806, up from 36,438; Chrysler sold 18,556, up from 17,372, and AMC sold 4,017, down from 5,503.

Ohio Certifies Pesticide Applicators

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Today, we live with pesticides. They are used primarily to produce food and to protect the food once it is produced. To be safe living with pesticides, their use must be accurate and carefully controlled. To assure this, Ohio law requires certification of pesticide applicators before they can apply "restricted use" pesticides. EPA is in the process of designating which pesticides will be for "restricted use" only. So far, a partial, unconfirmed classification list indicates several pesticides, used by farmers, will be on the "restricted use" list.

The Ohio Cooperative Extension Service and the Ohio Department of Agriculture are cooperating in an expanded educational and certification program involving the proper use of pesticides, says David R. Miskell, Associate State Leader, Agriculture Industry, The Ohio State University. Three categories of pesticide applicators are involved, he says. These are private, commercial, and limited commercial. The Cooperative Extension Service is responsible for the educational training, while the examination, certification and regulatory phases are the responsibility of the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

For the convenience of farmers, county agents will conduct county schools for private applicators interested in field crops — corn, soybeans, small grain and forage crops, Miskell says. Private applicators interested in the specialized categories will receive training at the regional schools taught by Extension Service specialists. Specialized categories include field vegetables and specialty crops, fruit crops, ornamental and turf crops, greenhouse crops, forest crops, livestock and livestock buildings, non-cropland, stored grain, aquatic, and seed treatment.

Ohio law defines "private applicator" as a certified applicator who uses or supervises the use of any pesticide, which is classified for restricted use, for purposes of producing any agricultural commodity on property owned or rented by him or his employer, or on the property of another person, if applied without compensation other than trading or personal services between producers of agricultural commodities. Private applicators need to be certified by October 21, 1977, in order to apply "restricted use" pesticides.

"Commercial applicator" means a certified custom operator, a certified public operator — whether or not he is a private applicator with respect to some uses — who uses or supervises the use of any pesticide on property other than that provided by the definition of "private applicator." Commercial applicators need to be certified and licensed by March 1, 1977, in order to apply any pesticide.

"Limited commercial applicator" means an individual other than a private applicator who limits his pesticide application activities, including supervision of use to his own property, to that of his principal employer and who has been certified as competent by the director (of Agriculture) to apply restricted use pesticides in those certain categories specified in his certification. Limited commercial applicators need to be certified by October 21, 1977, in order to apply "restricted use" pesticides.

Effective dates for certification are (1) commercial applicators, March 1, 1977, and (2) private applicators, October 21, 1977. All current licensed commercial applicators will need re-examination as follows: Those licensed in 1971, 1972 and 1973 — by March 1, 1977; those licensed in 1974, 1975 and 1976 — by March 1, 1978. Commercial applicators must be certified and licensed to apply "restricted use" or "general use" pesticides. Private applicators need to be certified only if they apply "restricted use" pesticides.

The Pickaway County private applicators school will be held on February 2 and 9, at 7:30 p.m., at the Senior Citizens Center (old Children's Home). The tests will be given on February 11, at 1 p.m. All types of tests can be given at this time, but for commercial permits the person taking the test must advise the Ohio Department of Agriculture that they would like to take the test at Circleville on the February 11 date.

Trials Show Soil Moisture Important To Soybean Yields

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Soil moisture available for plant growth and development is extremely important in soybean production, says Gordon J. Ryder, Extension Agronomist at The Ohio State University. This is particularly true during the late flowering and pod-fill period in late July, August and early September, he explains.

Total rainfall during the growing season is often misleading, Ryder continues. Distribution of the rainfall is more important to soybean yields. It is difficult to measure the genetic potential of a soybean line if moisture is a limiting factor.

A Page Of Opinion

Brewing A Boycott

Whether the embryonic coffee boycott, in protest against rapidly rising world coffee prices, amounts to any force in the marketplace the consumer alone will determine. More precisely, it will be the United States consumer, for he is the coffee market's principal customer. Americans consume about 42 per cent of the world's traded coffee and thus are in a commanding position to affect coffee sales, if they want to. With coffee prices in the U.S. rising more than a dollar a pound in only one year, and with the retail price now around $3.00 a pound — with predictions of far higher prices to come — the stimulus for a boycott is present. Coffee drinkers, however, do not easily forgo their favorite brew. They may make a conscious effort to reduce their intake somewhat — some determined souls may even give it up completely, for a while — but will it last? That is the question giving coffee its headier than usual aroma.

You Can't Tax Me

By PHYLLIS BATTLE
NEW YORK — Praise the Lord and pass the tax exemptions... Catchy? Hundreds of New York state residents, who last week became instant ordained ministers, think so. More than that, they hope there's no legal "catch" in what they're doing — which is turning their homes into houses of worship, thus making them eligible for property tax exemptions. With a fervor rarely seen in church proceedings north of the Mason-Dixon Line, more than 700 applicants gathered late last week in Lake Carmel, N.Y., to listen to the Reverend George McLain — formerly a plumber — deliver an address. He also delivered identification cards called "Credentials of Ministry" to the multitudes, certifying that the bearers are each "a legally ordained minister in the Universal Life Church (ULC)."

"Our church stands for brotherhood, salvation, equality," said Mr. McLain, a Cardinal in the ULC. "The full meaning of these precepts are, of course, up to the individual."

The Cardinal has become justly famous in the last few months in New York state. He has inducted 15,000 state residents into the ministry since Memorial Day, '76, and predicts that some 100,000 will "see the light" by June. His greatest achievement was the recent ordination of 92 per cent of the citizens of Hardenburg, a hard-hit town in the Catskill Mountains, which was so heavily taxed that men had to sell their homes. The Ulster County town had roughly a $9 million tax base, but much of it belonged to groups like the Boy Scouts and Tibetan Monks, who paid no taxes. In December, the local tax assessor approved all applications of homeowners to make their homes tax-exempt "churches."

At last Thursday's meeting (which was held in Putnam County, close to my home in Westchester Co., one of the highest-taxed areas in the country, ripe for "conversion" to ULC), enthusiasm knew no bounds when the Cardinal held up a newspaper banner headlined Tibet Buddhists Plan Kent Cliffs Monastery. McLain pointed out that Putnam, already 47 per cent tax exempt, was about to lose another several hundred acres from its tax rolls — as a result of a "discriminatory" system which makes the people carry the burden for groups who escape the system.

He pointed out that New York City is 40 per cent tax exempt, that N.Y. state as a whole is 31.8 per cent tax exempt — and likely to be 50 per cent exempt by 1985, the way things are going. Hearing this, hundreds of members of the "congregation" promptly began filling in their "credentials of ministry."

Some questioned the legality of the concept, but the Cardinal hastened to reassure them.

Attorneys are working with the Universal Life Church every step of the way, and its practice of instant ordination is "entirely legal," he said. The only requirement for ministers in the church is to locate a congregation which will meet regularly at the minister's home — "once every two weeks minimum." The congregation must have at least three members. They can be members of the minister's immediate family.

There are no costs involved, unless the ULC clergy would care to make a small donation to the church, which has headquarters in Modesto, Calif., where it was founded in 1962. However, Cardinal McLain made clear, he would refuse to ordain people who only wanted to become ministers in order to apply for tax exemptions: "It's wrong to admit people to the church just because of taxes," he said. (Organizers of schemes to dodge taxes can draw up to 10 years in jail and a $15,000 fine.)

There were some in the audience who felt the "new religion" is sacrilegious. But the head of the Lake Carmel Taxpayers Civic Association, which sponsored the "service," seemed to feel it was representative of one of the humanitarian services in which religion should appropriately be involved. If there are enough clergymen in the area, he indicated, perhaps officials will be forced to take a new look at the injudicious tax system in the area.

It came down to the basic question of whether people should pay the way for religious sects — and other groups — which are more capable than middle and lower-class homeowners, in many or most instances, of footing property tax bills.

Appropriately, the latest meeting of the new, instant clergy was held at a restaurant named "Paupers Too."

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — You might think more people were at work in December than in November, but unless the Bureau of Labor Statistics counted incorrectly, you are wrong. Yes, despite the fact that the same bureau this week reported an increase of 222,000 in the number of people with jobs. But it also reported a 48,000 decrease in the same measurement.

In November, said the bureau, its raw data showed 88,542,000 people employed. In December, the raw count found only 88,494,000 with jobs.

But in seasonally adjusting the figures, the BLS came up with totals of 88,130,000 for November and 88,352,000 for December. These are the figures most commonly used, even though they never were "counted."

The decline in the raw data came despite a huge 3.01 per cent gain in retail sales, the largest monthly rise in nearly five years, a rise that helped create jobs during Christmas.

So big was the rise in retail activity, as viewed by a Commerce Department economist, that he ventured to say it would result in a "several tenths of a percentage point" drop in unemployment. But unemployment, seasonally adjusted, fell from 8.1 per cent only to 7.9.

Which figures do you use? The bureau, and many professional users, prefer the seasonally adjusted numbers because, they say, they more precisely indicate the underlying trend.

In seasonally adjusting the figures, the bureau takes from some months and adds to others. In months during which jobs generally are more plentiful it adds to the unemployment figures; in poor months it subtracts.

In so doing, the bureau believes it eliminates purely seasonal factors — cold or warm weather, Christmas, June graduations — that might temporarily distort the longer-term trend. And by so doing it can arrive at an annual rate for the month.

If the employment statistics were unadjusted, the public would see abrupt shifts from month to month. In January, for instance, they would see a sharp worsening in the jobless rate. When seasonally adjusted, however, the figures often reveal little month to month change. Monthly changes have been "annualized."

Some critics are greatly upset about all this, claiming that the raw data would be far more preferable. So what if there were big month-to-month swings, they say, the user could simply compare any month with the same month in previous years to determine if things were improving or worsening.

One critic, Albert Sindlinger, head of Sindlinger & Co., a research firm that conducts its own employment surveys, claims that seasonal adjusting is very imperfect and sometimes subjective.

Sindlinger notes, for example, that if you add up all the monthly figures for unemployed you arrive at a different figure than if you add up the seasonally adjusted numbers.

Theoretically, the two sets of figures should agree.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The American Cancer Society is embarking on an all-out campaign against cigarette smoking. The goal is to get 12.5 million people, or one out of every four adult smokers, to quit the habit.

Another objective is to persuade half of the nine million teenagers to stop, or not to start.

A task force of two million volunteers, in conjunction with doctors, nurses and technicians, will be organized in this massive effort to reduce cigarette smoking, which today is said to cause about 30 per cent of the 400,000 deaths from cancer that occur each year.

Curvature of the spine, or "scoliosis," has often forced young children to be burdened by large casts. These cumbersome devices affected the formative years of many of these children.

Today, at the University of Rochester, a system is being tested to correct scoliosis and to prevent its progress, without the use of these bulky casts.

Dr. Walter Bobechko and Dr. Morley Herbert, of the University of Toronto, devised the technique and are testing it, in conjunction with Dr. William P. Haake, of the University of Rochester.

An electro-spinal instrumentation system (ESI) resembles a pacemaker used for heart disturbances. The ESI is implanted into the muscles of the back. Painless electrical stimulation causes the back muscles to contract, and helps to make the spine straighter.

Interest in this technique is so great that trial programs will be set up in more than 20 centers around the world.

Transplanting the pancreas has always been a far-fetched dream that seemed to have no hope of reality.

Today, it is being tried and is successful in experimental animals. Dr. David Worthen and Dr. Marshall Orloff, of the University of California Medical Center in San Diego, have transplanted the pancreas in these animals. Their studies in these diabetic animals reveal an interesting fact. The eye complications associated with severe diabetes were reduced in number and severity.

It is hoped that these initial studies will, before long, be translated to human needs.

Dental Association Price-Fixing Claimed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today charged the American Dental Association with price fixing and other unlawful practices that allegedly prevent patients from benefitting from competition.

The commission said that ethical codes observed by the ADA and its local chapters violate federal antitrust law by barring advertising and "by preventing price competition."

The FTC said the dental group, through its professional codes, "has eliminated competition among dentists in the United States."

The 124,000-member ADA, headquartered in Chicago, denied any wrongdoing. "The ADA has neither fostered any practices nor engaged in any conduct relating to its advertising ethics which is in violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act," the association said today.

The commission also announced it was beginning an investigation of the entire dental care industry "to determine whether restrictions imposed by private and governmental entities on the provision of dental services may be unfair methods of competition."

The probe will include a look at state or private rules regarding advertising, accreditation of dental schools, licensing requirements, and transfers of licenses from one state to another, the FTC said.

Named in the complaint as defendants were the ADA, the Indiana Dental Association, the Indianapolis District Dental Society, the Virginia Dental Association and the Northern Virginia Dental Society.

It was understood that these particular ADA-related groups were singled out because each has variations of the parent code that the FTC thinks should be struck down.

The commission said each of the ethical codes "fixes prices or otherwise interferes with the prices of dentists' services; deprives consumers of information pertinent to the selection of a dentist; and restrains the development of innovative systems for the delivery of dental services."

The commission's complaint will be heard by an administrative law judge who will then make recommendations to the commission. If the judge agrees with the complaint's allegations, the commission then could order the ADA to halt certain practices.

In its statement, the ADA said restrictions on dentists' advertising are included in state laws, in addition to the dental codes of ethics.

The association defended its own restrictions on advertising, saying that "unrestricted advertising would have no economic benefits for the public and, instead, might lead to serious abuses in the delivery of dental care." The statement did not explain how this would occur.

Schools Get Marathon Gas

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — The 9,000-student Findlay school system will get an additional five million cubic feet of natural gas this winter, thanks to a gesture by the Marathon Oil Co.

The oil company has turned over its allocation of natural gas which was to be used to heat its five-building corporate headquarters complex here.

Marathon vice president Elmer Graham, a former Findlay school board member, said the firm is able to switch fuel oil as an alternate source of heat and has arranged with Columbia Gas of Ohio to provide the school system with its allocation.

Schools were strapped for natural gas because of curtailments imposed by Columbia as a result of unseasonably cold weather and supply problems.

School Supt. C. Robert Baker said he was confident the Marathon allocation will enable the system to make it through the winter without any shut-downs.

No Charges In Shooting Case

NORWALK, Ohio (AP) — A New London police sergeant shot to death while "horsing around" with another officer died accidentally, the Huron County Grand Jury ruled Thursday.

The panel declined to indict a New London police officer Robert Skillikorn, 26, in connection with the Jan. 7 fatal shooting of Sgt. Timothy Budd, 24.

"I submitted the case to the grand jury for their consideration and they felt there was not enough evidence to put the man on trial for negligence," said Richard B. Hauser, Huron County prosecuting attorney.

Officials said Budd and Skillikorn were quick-drawing a .357-caliber pistol in the new London police headquarters when the incident occurred.

The sergeant died a few hours later on the operating table of Fisher-Titus Memorial Hospital in Norwalk.

The British infantry marched from Boston to Lexington and Concord to the tune of "Yankee Doodle," but they did not march back to it. After their victory, the American militia adopted the song, changed the words and hurled it back at the Redcoats.

A Page Of Opinion

Brewing A Boycott

Whether the embryonic coffee boycott, in protest against rapidly rising world coffee prices, amounts to any force in the marketplace the consumer alone will determine. More precisely, it will be the United States consumer, for he is the coffee market's principal customer. Americans consume about 42 per cent of the world's traded coffee and thus are in a commanding position to affect coffee sales, if they want to. With coffee prices in the U.S. rising more than a dollar a pound in only one year, and with the retail price now around $3.00 a pound — with predictions of far higher prices to come — the stimulus for a boycott is present. Coffee drinkers, however, do not easily forgo their favorite brew. They may make a conscious effort to reduce their intake somewhat — some determined souls may even give it up completely, for a while — but will it last? That is the question giving coffee its headier than usual aroma.

You Can't Tax Me

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Praise the Lord and pass the tax exemptions... Catchy? Hundreds of New York state residents, who last week became instant ordained ministers, think so. More than that, they hope there's no legal "catch" in what they're doing — which is turning their homes into houses of worship, thus making them eligible for property tax exemptions. With a fervor rarely seen in church proceedings north of the Mason-Dixon Line, more than 700 applicants gathered late last week in Lake Carmel, N.Y., to listen to the Reverend George McLain — formerly a plumber — deliver an address. He also delivered identification cards called "Credentials of Ministry" to the multitudes, certifying that the bearers are each "a legally ordained minister in the Universal Life Church (ULC)."

some 100,000 will "see the light" by June. His greatest achievement was the recent ordination of 92 per cent of the citizens of Hardenburg, a hard-hit town in the Catskill Mountains, which was so heavily taxed that men had to sell their homes. The Ulster County town had roughly a $9 million tax base, but much of it belonged to groups like the Boy Scouts and Tibetan Monks, who paid no taxes. In December, the local tax assessor approved all applications of homeowners to make their homes tax-exempt "churches." At last Thursday's meeting (which was held in Putnam County, close to my home in Westchester Co., one of the highest-taxed areas in the country, ripe for "conversion" to ULC), enthusiasm knew no bounds when the Cardinal held up a newspaper banner headlined Tibet Buddhists Plan Kent Cliffs Monastery. McLain pointed out that Putnam, already 47 per cent tax exempt, was about to lose another several hundred acres from its tax rolls — as a result of a "discriminatory" system which makes the people carry the burden for groups who escape the system. He pointed out that New York City is 40 per cent tax exempt, that N.Y. state as a whole is 31.8 per cent tax exempt — and likely to be 50 per cent exempt by 1985, the way things are going. Hearing this, hundreds of members of the "congregation" promptly began filling in their "credentials of ministry." Some questioned the legality of the concept, but the Cardinal hastened to reassure them. Attorneys are working with the Universal Life Church every step of the way, and its practice of instant ordination is "entirely legal," he said. The only requirement for ministers in the church is to locate a congregation which will meet regularly at the minister's home — "once every two weeks minimum." The congregation must have at least three members. They can be members of the minister's immediate family. There are no costs involved, unless the ULC clergy would care to make a small donation to the church, which has headquarters in Modesto, Calif., where it was founded in 1962. However, Cardinal McLain made clear, he would refuse to ordain people who only wanted to become ministers in order to apply for tax exemptions: "It's wrong to admit people to the church just because of taxes," he said. (Organizers of schemes to dodge taxes can draw up to 10 years in jail and a $15,000 fine.)

NEW YORK (AP) — You might think more people were at work in December than in November, but unless the Bureau of Labor Statistics counted incorrectly, you are wrong. Yes, despite the fact that the same bureau this week reported an increase of 222,000 in the number of people with jobs. But it also reported a 48,000 decrease in the same measurement. In November, said the bureau, its raw data showed 88,542,000 people employed. In December, the raw count found only 88,494,000 with jobs. Franciscan Meals Program History

The Franciscan Community Meals program had its beginning in Pickaway County, April 30, 1973 at the Trinity Lutheran Parish House. On that date the Senior Citizens Area Conference met to hear Miss Mary Duvall explain the program. Miss Duvall is the coordinator of volunteers for the Franciscan Community meals Program which is sponsored by the Good Samaritan Medical Center of Zanesville.

Since a meals program was one of the goals when Pickaway County Senior Center was started in April of 1972, the staff decided to investigate the idea more thoroughly. At the April 30 meeting there were interested people present from Fayette, Fairfield and Pickaway Counties.

Miss Duvall was asked to speak at the November, 1972, meeting of Community Services Council and representatives of many local groups, churches and service clubs were invited.

Before a contract was signed the Kiwanis club, through the efforts of Mr. William Smith and Mr. David Gillespie offered to underwrite the cost of the initial route, approximately $200. Of this $150 was necessary for hot and cold boxes and the other $50 for additional supplies.

All labor or effort was then and still is on a volunteer basis. The council on aging which is the governing body of the Pickaway County Senior Center decided that if a coordinator could be found for the project by Dec. 11 they would agree to sign the contract with Good Samaritan Center for securing equipment and supplies. Mrs. Ray Carroll agreed to be the coordinator. The contract was signed. The third Thursday morning of each month was designated as Franciscan Board meeting day and the first board meeting was held Jan. 17, 1974.

Miss Duvall, as an official member of the board met with that group of interested people at the Pickaway Senior Center. Many of those present agreed to serve as board members and during the following month, Mrs. Carroll and the center staff contacted other people. On Feb. 21, 1974, the board was organized.

At that time, Pickaway was the ninth county to adopt the Franciscan Program, the others being Perry, Muskingum, Guernsey, Washington, Morgan, Monroe, Madison and Meigs. At the present time more than 30 counties are involved. Areas of Indiana, New York, West Virginia and Pennsylvania are interested. It is the

Six Cases Decided In Juvenile Court

In Pickaway County Juvenile Court action this week, a 15-year-old boy with six charges was released from probation. He was charged with criminal damaging or endangering, two counts of petty theft, breaking and entering and two counts of probation violation.

Also, a 16-year-old incorrigible girl was dismissed after probation.

Russell R. Hodge, 608 Edgewood Drive, charged with reckless operation, had his case dismissed after the complainant failed to appear.

Larry Carter, Route 2, charged with speeding, had his case dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Two neglected girls, 13-and 15-year-olds, were placed in the temporary care and custody of the Pickaway County Children's Services.

The courts also had one transfer to Fayette County for a traffic case.

HAZARDOUS DRIVING — This scene on North Court Street has been a pretty common sight during the past week. When the roads have not been drifting, near zero temperatures have hindered the efforts of service crews to keep the roadways in good driving condition. Methods of transportation are just one area of our lives that is affected by winter weather.

Franciscan Meals Program History

The Franciscan Community Meals program had its beginning in Pickaway County, April 30, 1973 at the Trinity Lutheran Parish House. On that date the Senior Citizens Area Conference met to hear Miss Mary Duvall explain the program. Miss Duvall is the coordinator of volunteers for the Franciscan Community meals Program which is sponsored by the Good Samaritan Medical Center of Zanesville.

Since a meals program was one of the goals when Pickaway County Senior Center was started in April of 1972, the staff decided to investigate the idea more thoroughly. At the April 30 meeting there were interested people present from Fayette, Fairfield and Pickaway Counties.

Miss Duvall was asked to speak at the November, 1972, meeting of Community Services Council and representatives of many local groups, churches and service clubs were invited.

Before a contract was signed the Kiwanis club, through the efforts of Mr. William Smith and Mr. David Gillespie offered to underwrite the cost of the initial route, approximately $200. Of this $150 was necessary for hot and cold boxes and the other $50 for additional supplies.

All labor or effort was then and still is on a volunteer basis. The council on aging which is the governing body of the Pickaway County Senior Center decided that if a coordinator could be found for the project by Dec. 11 they would agree to sign the contract with Good Samaritan Center for securing equipment and supplies. Mrs. Ray Carroll agreed to be the coordinator. The contract was signed. The third Thursday morning of each month was designated as Franciscan Board meeting day and the first board meeting was held Jan. 17, 1974.

Miss Duvall, as an official member of the board met with that group of interested people at the Pickaway Senior Center. Many of those present agreed to serve as board members and during the following month, Mrs. Carroll and the center staff contacted other people. On Feb. 21, 1974, the board was organized.

At that time, Pickaway was the ninth county to adopt the Franciscan Program, the others being Perry, Muskingum, Guernsey, Washington, Morgan, Monroe, Madison and Meigs. At the present time more than 30 counties are involved. Areas of Indiana, New York, West Virginia and Pennsylvania are interested. It is the

Six Cases Decided In Juvenile Court

In Pickaway County Juvenile Court action this week, a 15-year-old boy with six charges was released from probation. He was charged with criminal damaging or endangering, two counts of petty theft, breaking and entering and two counts of probation violation.

Also, a 16-year-old incorrigible girl was dismissed after probation.

Russell R. Hodge, 608 Edgewood Drive, charged with reckless operation, had his case dismissed after the complainant failed to appear.

Larry Carter, Route 2, charged with speeding, had his case dismissed for lack of prosecution.

Two neglected girls, 13 and 15-year-olds, were placed in the temporary care and custody of the Pickaway County Children's Services.

The courts also had one transfer to Fayette County for a traffic case.

Rhodes Sets Longevity Mark As Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — James A. Rhodes, Friday, has been governor of Ohio longer than anyone else in the state's nearly 164-year history.

But he doesn't see it as any kind of a special milestone, he said. "It's just another day," he added Thursday in a relaxed mood for an Associated Press interview. "It's a job. You come to work."

Rhodes, who surpassed former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche's 10 years in office, talked about his past and to some extent the future. One big answer was not forthcoming.

Rhodes said he still doesn't know if he will seek a fourth, four-year term two years from now. "You may think I know, but I don't know if I will run again," said Rhodes.

"When do I have to file? Is it March 1978? I'll know by then," he said with a smile.

Fresh from his generally well received "State of the State" message to the Democratic legislature on Wednesday, the Republican chief executive said he had given little thought to the accomplishments of his 2½ terms.

Rhodes generally is credited with building possibly the best vocational school system in the nation. He also gets high marks for Ohio's modern highway network and putting post-high school educational opportunities within 30 miles of every youngster. The latter was a campaign promise of the 1960s. He served as governor previously from 1963-1971.

"All that is past. You don't look back. When you rest on your laurels, you start coming to work late in the mornings. You lose your ambition," he said. Instead, he said "I'm interested in Ohio's future."

Karen Ewing, Seth Driesbach Engagement

KAREN SUE EWING

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ewing, Stoutsville, are announcing the engagement of their daughter Karen Sue to Seth Allen Driesbach son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Driesbach of Circleville.

Miss Ewing is a 1975 graduate of Logan Elm High School and is employed by The Second National Bank, Circleville, as a secretary.

Her fiancé is a 1976 graduate of Logan Elm High School and Pickaway Ross Joint Vocational School and is currently employed by Flash Electric of Circleville.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Guild 51 Cancels Meeting

Berger Hospital Guild 51 has canceled its meeting scheduled for Jan. 17 in the home of Mrs. Mary Stacy, 311 E. Union St.

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

SAVINGS INSURED AT

He said his immediate projects include reorganization of the welfare department, including Medicaid, expanding opportunities for the handicapped, and upgrading state mental hospitals so they can receive the same accreditation as private hospitals within the next two years. "To have every mental hospital an accredited hospital would be the greatest achievement of any governor," he said, apparently as an afterthought on the previous question. However, he said the legislature deserves credit as well.

Rhodes appears in excellent health for his 67 years. He doesn't drink or smoke, and apparently works long hours. He gets to the office about 7:30 a.m. and goes home at 6 or 7. "I work at home. I make a lot of calls," he said about 10 calls every night, "the nation's oldest governor said."

The six-foot governor lives in his private home in Upper Arlington, having shunned the costly governor's mansion, and travels around in a state patrol Chevrolet. "I don't interrupt things that way. I don't go around anointing and blessing people," he explained.

In 1975, after returning as governor, Rhodes suffered one of his biggest political setbacks when voters soundly rejected his four-part ballot package to make Ohio "depression proof." On occasions like that, he said, "I just feel that the governor has done all he could do."

He pointed out that only recently Ohio's energy problems have demonstrated that "sometimes we get ahead of ourselves in here." He noted that the $4.5 billion ballot package, biggest in the nation, included a $150 million allocation to develop and research energy supplies. "That's one of the problems. You can't tell people in 1975 there is going to be an energy shortage in 1977. Sometimes they just don't listen," he said.

Are decisions tougher now than they were 10 years ago?

Not really, he said, but the problems change. "We try to adjust and keep up with the problems, and get ahead of them."

Rhodes explained how he makes decisions. "We get those (cabinet members) involved in a problem in here and we take a vote. The majority wins." Asked if he ever had overruled the consensus, he said "No, never."

The governor confirmed reports of longstanding that he learned his politics from Lausche, who served five two-year terms in the 1940s and 1950s and defeated Rhodes in his first bid to become governor in 1964. "I got my PhD and every degree in political education there is from Lausche. I think he was one of Ohio's great governors."

As to his own success in politics, which included the ouster in 1962 and 1974 of two incumbent Democratic governors, Rhodes said "I didn't do it. The people did."

In each case, he said, he only had to demonstrate that the incumbents, Michael V. DiSalle and John J. Gilligan, respectively, had mismanaged Ohio's government. "When people elect a governor, they elect a manager," he said.

The former state auditor and onetime mayor of Columbus denied allegations from some whom he said depicted him "a hard driver," as a boss. But he said he demands honesty and will fire anyone he catches "trying to gouge the public. That's one thing the people know. No one ever has accused me of trying to gouge the public."

Rhodes concluded by saying "you know, I'm a coal miner's son. The people of Ohio have been good to me. I owe an awful lot to the people of Ohio."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Man Is Much Happier Since Joining O.A.

DEAR ABBY: In 1973 I wrote to you and you printed my letter together with your answer, which changed my life. I would like to share with you what has happened to me since:

1. I have sustained my 100-pound weight loss for five years.
2. I went into therapy.
3. I received a Master's degree in psychology, and am now a practicing and teaching therapist.

I owe an eternal debt of gratitude to Overeaters Anonymous and you.

ALBERT IN LOS ANGELES.
DEAR ABBY: Don't sell yourself short. Without your determination, you never could have accomplished your goal. I shall reprint your letter as an inspiration to others who need it now.

DEAR ABBY: My name is Albert, and I am a compulsive overeater. Three years ago, I weighed 305 pounds. I was in debt to the tune of $8,000. My marriage was on the rocks and I was about to lose my job. Overeating was the cause of all my problems, but I didn't know it then.

I had tried reducing clubs three times, diet doctors, quack doctors, shots, pills and even hypnosis. One diet doctor put me on pills and shots and I lost 100 pounds in seven months. In less than six months I had put it all back on again. (It cost me $1,500.)

Then someone told me about Overeaters Anonymous, and I went to a meeting. There were signs all over the place saying, "WE CARE."

Abby, I have never met a more loving, caring bunch of people in my life. I couldn't believe it. The only requirement to join "O.A." is a desire to stop eating compulsively. There are no dues, and nobody is weighed in or humiliated. You don't even have to attend meetings if you don't want to. I can only tell you that after that first meeting I felt that God sent me there.

Today, I weigh 180 pounds, am debt free, have money in the bank and my marriage is more secure than ever. I've even returned to my church, where I was ashamed to go for years because I felt so unworthy.

Overeaters Anonymous is strictly that. No last names are used, but I will sign mine, and you may check me out. That organization has done so much for me I want to let others know about it so they can be born again. Because that's what happened to me.

ALBERT IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR ABBY: Not only did I check you out, but I personally spoke with several members of "O.A.," and every word you wrote is true. Anyone interested in learning more about this wonderful organization (there are chapters all over the U.S.) may write to Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 34854, Los Angeles, Calif. 90034.

DEAR ABBY: The other day a friend of mine (I will call her Josephine) told me how cool she thought my brother was and that she would give anything to go out with him.

Well, I told my brother about Josephine and what she said, and he didn't think the same about her. In fact he thought she was a creep. I even offered him money to take her out just once, but he wouldn't do it. I know Josephine is going to ask me about my brother again. What shall I tell her?

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: If Josephine inquires about your "cool" brother again, tell her that he freezes at the suggestion of dating a friend of yours, and unless she can attract him on her own, it's not tonight Josephine-or any other night.

Are decisions tougher now than they were 10 years ago?

Not really, he said, but the problems change. "We try to adjust and keep up with the problems, and get ahead of them."

Rhodes explained how he makes decisions. "We get those (cabinet members) involved in a problem in here and we take a vote. The majority wins." Asked if he ever had overruled the consensus, he said "No, never."

The governor confirmed reports of longstanding that he learned his politics from Lausche, who served five twoyear terms in the 1940s and 1950s and defeated Rhodes in his first bid to become governor in 1954. "I got my PhD and every degree in political education there is from Lausche. I think he was one of Ohio's great governors."

As to his own success in politics, which included the ouster in 1962 and 1974 of two incumbent Democratic governors, Rhodes said "I didn't do it. The people did."

In each case, he said, he only had to demonstrate that the incumbents, Michael V. DiSalle and John J. Gilligan, respectively, had mismanaged Ohio's government. "When people elect a governor, they elect a manager," he said.

The former state auditor and onetime mayor of Columbus denied allegations from some whom he said depicted him "a hard driver," as a boss. But he said he demands honesty and will fire anyone he catches "trying to gouge the public. That's one thing the people know. No one ever has accused me of trying to gouge the public."

Rhodes concluded by saying "you know, I'm a coal miner's son. The people of Ohio have been good to me. I owe an awful lot to the people of Ohio."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Man Is Much Happier Since Joining O.A.

DEAR ABBY: In 1973 I wrote to you and you printed my letter together with your answer, which changed my life. I would like to share with you what has happened to me since:

1. I have sustained my 100-pound weight loss for five years.

2. I went into therapy.

3. I received a Master's degree in psychology, and am now a practicing and teaching therapist.

I owe an eternal debt of gratitude to Overeaters Anonymous and you.

ALBERT IN LOS ANGELES. DEAR ABBY: Don't sell yourself short. Without your determination, you never could have accomplished your goal. I shall reprint your letter as an inspiration to others who need it now.

DEAR ABBY: My name is Albert, and I am a compulsive overeater. Three years ago, I weighed 305 pounds. I was in debt to the tune of $8,000. My marriage was on the rocks and I was about to lose my job. Overeating was the cause of all my problems, but I didn't know it then.

I had tried reducing clubs three times, diet doctors, quack doctors, shots, pills and even hypnosis. One diet doctor put me on pills and shots and I lost 100 pounds in seven months. In less than six months I had put it all back on again. (It cost me $1,500.)

Then someone told me about Overeaters Anonymous, and I went to a meeting. There were signs all over the place saying, "WE CARE."

Abby, I have never met a more loving, caring bunch of people in my life. I couldn't believe it. The only requirement to join "O.A." is a desire to stop eating compulsively. There are no dues, and nobody is weighed in or humiliated. You don't even have to attend meetings if you don't want to. I can only tell you that after that first meeting I felt that God sent me there.

Today, I weigh 180 pounds, am debt free, have money in the bank and my marriage is more secure than ever. I've even returned to my church, where I was ashamed to go for years because I felt so unworthy.

Overeaters Anonymous is strictly that. No last names are used, but I will sign mine, and you may check me out. That organization has done so much for me I want to let others know about it so they can be born again. Because that's what happened to me.

ALBERT IN LOS ANGELES

DEAR ALBERT: Not only did I check you out, but I personally spoke with several members of "O.A.," and every word you wrote is true. Anyone interested in learning more about this wonderful organization (there are chapters all over the U.S.) may write to Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 34854, Los Angeles, Calif. 90034.

DEAR ABBY: The other day a friend of mine (I will call her Josephine) told me how cool she thought my brother was and that she would give anything to go out with him.

Well, I told my brother about Josephine and what she said, and he didn't think the same about her. In fact he thought she was a creep. I even offered him money to take her out just once, but he wouldn't do it. I know Josephine is going to ask me about my brother again. What shall I tell her?

ON THE SPOT DEAR ON: If Josephine inquires about your "cool" brother again, tell her that he freezes at the suggestion of dating a friend of yours, and unless she can attract him on her own, it's not tonight Josephine-or any other night.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

Many familiar faces were missing when the 95th Congress convened last week, and with them had departed a wealth of legislative experience. Still, while names in the roll call have changed, the major problems facing our nation have not.

Inflation still plagues our economy, and the needed lid on unnecessary federal spending, a major contributor to that inflation, has yet to be placed by either house of Congress.

The 94th Congress was characterized by plenty of rhetoric about fiscal responsibility and helping the American taxpayer, but when the hour of decision came, the big-spending majority time and again raised the debt ceiling and finally approved a federal budget that exceeded President Ford's request by $17.5 billion.

With one party now in control of both the Executive and Legislative Branches and in the absence of some needed Presidential vetoes of unwise and costly legislation, the danger of Congress rubber-stamping anything that comes from the White House is probably greater than ever before.

Whatever relationship between the Carter White House and Capitol Hill ultimately develops, measures to stimulate the economy and reduce our unacceptably high rate of unemployment are certain to be considered in the near future.

To get Americans back to work, Congress will have before it legislation, which I co-sponsored, to expand the Public Works Capital Investment and Development Act. At least 80 per cent of the jobs generated for construction of needed public works projects are expected to be in the private sector, with workers to be employed under contract with private firms.

Unemployment is particularly high in parts of the Sixth District and in other areas of Ohio. The need for expanded public works assistance was clear when almost immediately the dollar amount of applications far exceeded the funds allotted to Ohio in the Public Works Act of last year.

President-elect Carter has indicated that he will seek approval of an economic stimulus package, including a $4 billion tax cut, to be achieved by increasing the standard deduction. Whatever course he chooses, proposals to relieve the burden on America's taxpayers are certain to be made.

He will also seek to make internal reorganizations in federal agencies, subject to a 60-day veto by either house of Congress. Reorganization which decreases the size of government and increases its effectiveness will be welcomed, if the change does not, in fact, result in an increase in the very bureaucracy it ostensibly seeks to reduce.

A cabinet-level energy department and the enactment of a national energy policy are high on the list of legislative priorities made public by the President-elect. I only hope that when this Congress takes up the pressing energy question, the American consumer will receive the same consideration heretofore accorded the major oil companies and natural gas producers.

The growing military power and unabated arms buildup of the Soviet Union make defense and defense spending important as never before. However, President-elect Carter has indicated that he will seek a $5 billion cut in defense spending.

Still, the need to keep this nation's defenses strong must guide congressional consideration of upcoming military procurement and construction authorizing legislation.

Many government programs are sure to get consideration because they expire on various dates in 1977—more than in any of the last five years. Facing renewal, change, or expiration are programs concerned with farming, air and water pollution control, health services, educational impact aid, foreign economic assistance, highways, housing, and the debt ceiling.

Other measures likely to receive the attention of this Congress include national health insurance, welfare reform, consumer protection, strip mining, and oil spillage legislation.

Many of the problems facing this Congress have confronted its predecessors for decades. The question is: will the 95th Congress continue to throw more federal tax dollars at the nation's problems? Will the old problems be met with the same old unsatisfactory solutions?

With such a large financial stake in what Congress does, the American people are understandably curious and justifiably concerned.

Man Sentenced To Execution

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Mahoning County Common Pleas Court Judge Elwin Jenkins sentenced John Ingram, 29, of Youngstown to death Friday for the slaying of a Youngstown woman last year.

Court officials said the sentence is the first death penalty handed down in Mahoning County since the late 1940s. Ingram was sentenced in the death of 29-year-old Judith White in a Youngstown tavern last February. Another woman also was abducted and raped during the incident.

Brown Given Nod By Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter's nominee to be secretary of state, Cyrus R. Vance, Friday became the third Cabinet appointee to win a preliminary stamp of approval from a Senate committee.

Carter's selection of Vance to succeed Henry A. Kissinger was approved unanimously by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The endorsement came without debate.

Vance and other Carter nominations are expected to be confirmed by the full Senate shortly after the president-elect's inauguration Jan. 20.

Carter's designated secretary of defense, Harold Brown, was the second Cabinet appointee in the new administration to win committee endorsement.

Fatal Blaze Cause Sought

COLUMBUS (AP) — A pre-dawn fire Thursday that killed two persons started in the living room of one unit in the Ohio State University area duplex, fire investigators said.

But officials were still uncertain what caused the blaze, which hospitalized three other persons, including two Ohio state students.

A couple who lived in one side of the three-story frame structure on Indiana Avenue near the state fairgrounds escaped uninjured.

"The fire started in the living room of the side where the five were staying," a fire department spokesman said.

Fire officials identified the dead victims as Loretta Gorenc, 19, of Maple Heights, an Ohio State College of Arts student; and Chris Nolan, 27, of Torrence, Calif., a student at El Camino State College in California.

Listed in satisfactory condition Thursday at University Hospital were Margaret Gorup, 19, of Maple Heights; Tina Romanak, 19, of Maple Heights; and Richard Urbas, 19, of Miramar, Ohio.

Miss Gorup and Miss Romanak are students in University College at Ohio State.

Eric Schafer, 23, and his wife, Jean, 26, a high school teacher, fled from the burning house when they were awakened by the blaze about 5:30 a.m.

Flags have been used as symbols of tribal or group identity as far back as the time of the early Egyptian, Persian, Assyrian and Hebrew civilizations.

Brown won unanimous approval Thursday from the Senate Armed Services Committee. Carter's choice for agriculture secretary, Bob Bergland, was approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee on Tuesday.

Labor Secretary-designate Ray Marshall testified Thursday before the Senate Labor Committee and Joseph Califano, Carter's nominee to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was before the Senate finance and labor-education committees.

Only Griffin Bell, Carter's choice for attorney general, continued to face opposition in committee hearings. After three full days of testimony, there was uncertainty about when the Senate Judiciary Committee will vote on whether to recommend his approval by the Senate.

Black leaders Thursday gave the Judiciary Committee contrasting views of Bell's commitment to civil rights.

Warren Cochrane and Lonnie King, both blacks from Atlanta, recommended Bell, an Atlanta lawyer and former U.S. Circuit Court judge. Their testimony followed that of Rep. Parren J. Mitchell, D-Md., chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus, and Clarence Mitchell of the NAACP, who both urged the committee to reject Bell.

Parren Mitchell said Bell was the "mastermind" of Georgia's resistance to court-ordered desegregation orders in the 1950s when he served as an adviser to the state's governor.

King, former president of the Atlanta NAACP chapter, said Bell has "the background, the capacity, and the commitment to be a superb attorney general."

And Cochrane, former secretary of Atlanta's Negro Voters League, said blacks will have "a real friend" as attorney general if Bell's nomination is confirmed.

Differing views of Bell also came from the liberal Americans for Democratic Action and from former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., former chairman of the ADA, said Bell "gave aid and comfort to the segregationists of this country." Jaworski called him "thoroughly qualified" to head the Justice Department and lauded him as a man who would not knuckle under to pressure.

For the Pentagon post, Brown, a nuclear weapons expert and former secretary of the Air Force, won unanimous approval from the Armed Services Committee.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the panel, said of Brown: "There are no particular minuses that we could find.... he's capable of doing a good job."

The committee also gave unanimous approval to Charles W. Duncan Jr., a Houston, Tex., millionaire, as deputy defense secretary.

NEW YORK (AP) — Increased demand for natural gas — which currently accounts for 30 per cent of the nation's energy needs compared to only 7 per cent in 1947 — has intensified the search for underground cavities for gas storage, reports The Compass, a publication of MOAC, a commercial marine insurance company.

"Underground storage capacity has increased by more than 50 per cent since 1965," says Compass. "Currently some 368 reservoirs in 26 states hold more than 6.3 trillion cubic feet of gas."

"While storage won't solve the immediate problem of dwindling gas supplies in the United States," says the magazine, "it has enabled local companies to add new customers to their systems instead of turning them away or forcing them to wait on line as they had to do during the 1950s."

The new Alaskan National Park System proposed by the U.S. Dept. of the Interior would include more than 32 million acres of land for protection, yet it would amount to less than 9 per cent of Alaskan land.

Commuters Given Last Train Ride

CLEVELAND (AP) — There was a festive air, and the train which Conrail said didn't attract enough passengers to pay the freight was jammed Friday evening. It was the final run of the last commuter train in Ohio.

The crowd of about 60 regulars aboard the Cleveland-to-Youngstown commuter was swelled by railroad buffs and a party sponsored by the Early Settlers Association of the Western Reserve. For many, as the train pulled out at 5:20 p.m., it was a sentimental journey aboard the last passenger train out of the once-busy Cleveland Union Terminal.

The only passenger train still serving Cleveland—Amtrak's Lakeshore Limited—uses a depot behind City Hall on the Lake Erie shore.

With patronage dropping steadily, the Erie Lackawanna Railway finally got rid of the commuter run six months ago, and Conrail took over the service that had operated for four score years.

But the federal funds subsidizing the Conrail operation ran out, and Ohio refused to pick up the tab.

Friday night, however, there were so many riders they had to add an extra car to the normal two-car train, and there was standing room only in the three cars.

A party, complete with cold cuts and booze, started in the last car as the train jounced and swayed out of Cleveland.

A couple of bridge games got going, and a couple of bus line representatives passed out literature.

For the regular riders it was a sad occasion, and not just because they were losing a mode of transportation.

"You'd be surprised how close we all become," said John Bahl. "We might not even know a guy's name, but we'd talk or at least say hello every day," he added.

For Ed Schneider, it meant loss of "a lifestyle. I never had to worry about the weather. I could work, read or take a nap."

"Now, I'm not sure how I'll get to work."

Schneider said he had ridden the train to and from Aurora for 22 years.

Friday night, for the first time he said, he had to stand all the way.

Mayor Still Seeks Expense Money

CARLISLE, Ohio (AP) — Mayor Melvin Reece said he still plans to collect $600 in expense money from the Carlisle City Council.

State, Federal Crime Funds Released

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes announced approval this week of 30 grants totaling almost $912,000 in state and federal crime control funds.

The largest grant, $100,207, to Muskingum County, will continue funding to a Youth Services Bureau that serves Muskingum, Coshocton, Guernsey, Morgan, Noble and Perry counties. The bureau works through family counseling to reduce juvenile delinquency and divert offenders from the juvenile justice system.

Other grants approved were:

- $83,251 to the city of Warren, Trumbull County, to set up an anti-crime task force;

- $74,363 to Fulton County to begin a criminal investigation unit to serve Fulton, Henry, Putnam, Williams, Defiance and Paulding counties;
- $64,389 to Crawford County to purchase equipment for a law enforcement communications update;
- $62,866 to Miami County to increase the capacity of a residential halfway house;
- $57,000 to Richland County to continue a program to find alternatives to incarceration of first offenders and prevent recidivism;
- $50,154 to Kent State University to hire personnel to train area legal profession members in videotape technology;
- $46,292 to the city of Hamilton, Butler County, for continuation of a crime prevention program, with emphasis on fighting crime against property;
- $37,381 to the city of Middletown, Butler County, to create a crime prevention unit to develop citizen participation programs;
- $36,944 to Licking County to continue a program to find alternatives to incarceration of first offenders and prevent recidivism;
- $34,833 to Trumbull County to hire personnel for the sheriff's department to deal with juvenile crime and set up a youth services bureau;
- $28,876 to Logan County to continue diversion of juvenile and adult first offenders from traditional systems;
- $28,826 to Stark County for continuation of an Adult Volunteer Probation Program in which aides are matched to probationers on a one-to-one basis to provide counseling and good examples;
- $26,389 to Allen County for the continued services of counselors working toward delinquency prevention;

- $24,278 to Wood County to hire a probation officer to expand and increase the efficiency of the existing probation department;
- $21,111 to Athens County for the continued services of a criminal trial attorney for the public defender's office;
- $16,821 to the city of Xenia, Greene County, to hire consultants to aid the prosecution system in better qualifying officers to make arrests that will stand up in court;

Deputies Check Six Accidents

Slippery, snow-clogged Pickaway County roads were blamed by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies for six Friday afternoon traffic accidents.

None of the persons involved in the crashes were hurt, deputies said.

The accidents included:

A 12:15 p.m. accident on Route 56 south of French Road when Donald L. Adams, 27, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, pulled his fuel oil tanker truck to the berm to allow clearance to oncoming motorists on the snow-narrowed road. Adams' truck slid off the side of the road and rolled to its side.

Pickaway County Humane Society Holds Meeting

The Pickaway County Humane Society held their regular meeting Wednesday in the Probate Court room. The Education Committee will be meeting to prepare the Pet Packet to be used to educate children on pet care. The Spaying Committee has had one meeting and will meet again to discuss facilities needed for a spaying clinic.

Rosemarie Caruso and Jeanne Riegel attended the Animal Control Legislative Workshop on January 5. They spoke on many of the ideas they obtained there. They told of an education program used in Toledo and listed the topics taught to the different age groups. Many of the new ideas seem worthwhile and will be checked into.

The Society will be placing an ad in the Herald listing the biweekly total of animals abandoned in Pickaway County to better impress the public with the waste of animals. Ralph Wallace will supply the statistics to be used in the ad.

Ralph announced that he will be at the Animal Shelter not only during the week but also on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The Pet of the Week will also be run on the radio to give better coverage. The Pet of the Week will have a name given to it for more personal interest and a personal history of the animal will be used, if known.

At the next meeting, a field trip for members to the Animal Shelter will be discussed. The field trip will take place in better weather.

The next meeting will be February 9 at 7 p.m. in the Probate Court room.

A 1:40 p.m. accident on Route 62 north of the Five Points Pike when Victor T. Hart Jr., 48, Bloomingburg, slid into the side of a bridge.

A 5:40 p.m. two-car crash in Orient on Stahl Road when cars driven by Gary A. Holden, 22, Grove City, and Margaret A. Coontz, Mound St., Orient, collided head-on in a curve.

A 6 p.m. accident on the Walnut Creek Pike, a tenth of a mile north of the Bell Station Road, when a car driven by Carl L. Brown, 30, 4800 Duvall Road, Ashville, and a farm tractor and grader driven by David Renick, 28, 18811 Ringgold Southern Road, drove into snow banks on the single-lane of travel.

And two 6:50 p.m. accidents on the Duvall Road a quarter of a mile west of the Bulen Pierce Road. In separate accidents, trucks driven by Otto Hoskinson, 64, Columbus, and Charles R. Teeters, 38, 2802 Duvall Road, slid off the right side into a ditch.

Johnsongrass taking over your corn? Get Eradicane®

Selective Herbicide

Johnsongrass, as strong a weed as you'll ever see, can put you out of the corn business if left unchecked. An Eradicane herbicide program is the answer.

Here's how to use it. Plow early and disc several times to chop the johnsongrass rhizomes into pieces about 4 inches long. Then disc in Eradicane thoroughly.

Plant fields infested with johnsongrass last, so the soil is warm. This way, corn grows fast to make a quick ground cover without weed competition. Eradicane also controls many other grass and broadleaf weeds.

That's the Eradicane herbicide program . . . it works so well performance is guaranteed in the continental United States when used as the label directs, or Stauffer will replace the product. Verify purchase, leave a check strip and notify Stauffer promptly.

This season control seedling johnsongrass and thoroughly suppress the rhizomes. Use Eradicane. Always follow label directions carefully. See your Stauffer supplier for Eradicane.

Frisco Rips Pepperdine, 107-72

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The University of San Francisco's latest show of basketball strength brought out a white flag in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

"They'll go undefeated in the league," predicted Pepperdine Coach Gary Colson after his Waves, defending WCAC champions, lost 107-72 Friday night to the unbeaten and nationally top-ranked Dons.

"They were good last year, but when they've all improved that much—wow!" added Colson. "I could say we just had a bad game, but anybody who watched it wouldn't believe me."

Bill Cartwright, the Dons' 6-foot-11 sophomore center, is no doubt the most improved player on the still-young USF team and he came up with a career-high 18 rebounds to go with 24

points Friday night.

Cartwright made 11 of 17 shots from the field, Marlon Redmond hit on 10 of 17 shots in a 20-point performance and James Hardy was 7-for-10 on his 16-point night.

The Dons, 18-0, shot 59 per cent as a team and outrebounded the Waves 63-39 and took sole possession of first place in the WCAC at 3-0 as Santa Clara, with Londale Theus scoring 25 points, handed Loyola its first loss, 79-72, in another WCAC game.

San Jose State got 26 points from Ken Mickey and posted a 67-40 road victory over Pacific in a Pacific Coast Athletic Association opener, the only other major college game on the West Coast.

After six minutes, the Dons held only a 11-10 lead. Cartwright dominated the next four minutes, scoring six points and grabbing several rebounds, and suddenly it was 25-13.

"These guys are proud of the fact they're No. 1," said Coach Bob Gaillard of his players. "I think we're playing up to our potential right now."

As for Cartwright, the coach said that a big reason the 6-11 center had a somewhat disappointing season as a freshman was that he simply gave away too much weight to some opponents.

"He'd make some of the same moves he makes now and get knocked down. It wasn't that he needed to be more aggressive," Gaillard said.

He added that he considered Cartwright's 18 rebounds quite an achievement, "because it's tough getting any with Hardy and Redmond under there, too."

In other college basketball games Friday night, Jim Wood and Billy Smith combined for 29 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 71-59 victory over St. Louis; Allen Cunningham's 21 points and seven rebounds powered Colorado State over Brigham Young 49-41; Steve Hayes scored 20 points to lead Idaho State to a 73-60 decision over Boise State; Bill Hessing hit five free throws in the final minute to boost Idaho past Gonzaga 68-65; a 42-point performance by Jack Phelan led St. Francis over Duquesne 89-85 in overtime; George Washington defeated Penn State 91-88 in overtime as John Holloran contributed 26 points and John Mollohan's 21 points led West Virginia Tech to a 69-48 triumph over West Liberty.

Blazers Bop Celtics; Win 107-92

BOSTON (AP) — Dave Cowens is back with the Boston Celtics, ready to resume intimidating National Basketball Association opponents. But his first action proved it's going to take him some time to get back into playing condition after a two-month hiatus.

Cowens, who lost more than $100,000 of his reported $280,000 salary for his 63-day leave of absence for "personal reasons," returned to action Friday night after just one practice.

Playing with intensity, he flashed his old fire, sparking one spectacular comeback by the Celtics. But his efforts weren't enough as the Portland Trail Blazers pulled away in the second half for a 107-92 victory, their sixth in a row and 29th of the season. "I feel all right, but it doesn't mean much right now anyway," the 6-foot-8 center said. "Tomorrow is when I'll be able to tell."

Cowens came off the bench in each quarter, logging a total of 22 minutes, 23 seconds. He fouled out with nine seconds remaining, and his line on the statistics read: eight points, six rebounds, three assists and one steal. However, he hit on just three of nine field goal attempts.

He received a standing ovation when he entered the game and when he left.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Buffalo beat New Orleans 131-103, Atlanta defeated the New York Nets 120-101, Philadelphia edged Kansas City 111-106, Golden State nipped Indiana 113-109, Washington stopped Chicago 94-89, Los Angeles trimmed San Antonio 109-106, Houston routed Milwaukee 111-84, Denver whipped Cleveland 116-96 and Seattle topped the New York Knicks 127-107.

"Your hand-eye coordination is usually off after a layoff, but I didn't think my timing was too bad," Cowens said. "At first, I felt a little strange, but there was nothing really different."

"I was very pleased," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said. "His timing was off and it's going to take him another week to 10 days to get back into condition. He gave a good effort and juiced up the team for a while."

Flames Top St. Louis In NHL, 3-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Blues were surprised to see Rey Comeau score two goals. As a matter of fact, so was Rey Comeau.

"I've been unlucky lately and missed a lot of goals, so the two tonight made me very, very happy," said Comeau after leading the Atlanta Flames to a 3-2 National Hockey League victory over the St. Louis Blues Friday night.

Comeau's goals were only his fifth and sixth of the season, hardly anything to write home about.

"He's been working hard," said Atlanta Coach Fred Creighton, "and had nothing to show for it. It was good to see Rey get a couple of goals."

Comeau would have had even one more except for a fine stop by St. Louis goalie Doug Grant.

"If Grant hadn't caught my last shot between his pads, I would have had a hat trick," said Comeau. "But don't get me wrong—I'm happy with two goals. And look who I scored them against, Garry Unger! He's a tough man to play against. He's a good fore-checker and scoring against him made me appreciate the goals even more."

The game was the only one in the NHL Friday night.

In the World Hockey Association, Winnipeg beat Calgary 5-3; Minnesota routed Indianapolis 9-5; Houston defeated Birmingham 5-3; Edmonton tripped New England 5-3 and Phoenix nipped Cincinnati 6-5 in overtime.

Pro Bowl Not Ho Hum Game?

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pete Rozelle, the National Football League commissioner, says players who say ho hum about the Pro Bowl are doing a disservice to themselves and the NFL.

Rozelle concedes the all-star game to be played in Seattle's Kingdome Monday night seems anticlimactic on the heels of the Super Bowl, then adds: "But we couldn't do without it."

Why? Because it generates money for the players' pension fund.

Rozelle made a visit Friday to San Diego Stadium, where the top players from the American and National Conferences are practicing prior to their departure today for Seattle aboard separate planes for each squad.

Rozelle met with Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' union who watched the practices during the week and made less than flattering remarks about NFL owners and executives.

At one point during the week, Garvey described the NFL as, "An unregulated monopoly headed by a commissioner selected by the owners."

Results of the meeting between the two men were not disclosed.

"We talked," said Rozelle. He explained the pension fund angle of the Pro Bowl by admitting the NFL has not been putting anything into the fund since 1974, when the contract on working conditions with the NFL Players Association ran out.

But he said money left over from division championship and Pro Bowl games still is being set aside and earmarked for the pension pool when an agreement with the players is obtained.

With AFC and NFC division titles having been played this year in small 50,000-seat stadiums in Minnesota and Oakland, Rozelle said the impending Pro Bowl has added significance. It is a 65,000-seat sellout that will generate about $800,000 in pension money.

Rozelle said he will leave San Diego about the same time as the Pro Bowl squads for Sunday and Monday league meetings in Seattle. Garvey said he is going home to Washington, D.C.

"They took a vote and decided I wasn't invited (to the meetings)," Garvey said sarcastically.

Rozelle said he doesn't anticipate any noteworthy developments at the meetings.

"We'll just lay the groundwork for our meeting in March in Phoenix," he said.

Jane Blalock Leads Triple Crown Golf

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Jane Blalock has had a habit of blowing leads in the past, but she's right where she wants to be after the first round of the 36-hole, $50,000 Triple Crown Golf Tournament—two strokes in front.

"I'm more mature now to take the pressure of the lead," Miss Blalock said after firing a 72 Friday in the opening event of the 1977 LPGA tour. "Plus I have two strokes for error."

Miss Blalock's even-par round over the Mission Hills layout gave her the lead over JoAnne Carner and Jan Stephenson, who had a pair of 74s.

Fighting Saints

Hockey Team Folding

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota's professional hockey war may be over for good, following the suspension Friday night of the World Hockey Association's Fighting Saints and the sale of seven top players.

Saints' President Bob Brown said efforts to find new owners would continue, but that he was "not optimistic" that this could be done by next Thursday, the day before the suspension runs out and the Saints are scheduled to play at Houston.

Steve Lobell, a 3-year-old trotter, won $351,950 in 1976 on a 10-5-3 record in 27 starts.

Gals Steal Spotlight In Track

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — While a couple of male Olympians stumbled and tumbled, women competitors stole the spotlight at the 10th National Invitational Indoor Track Meet.

Lorna Forde set a world indoor record of 53.8 seconds in the 440-yard run, high jumper Joni Huntley just missed bettering her own world standard, and Francie Larrieu Lutz lowered her own meet mark in the mile to 4:34.7.

For her wire-to-wire performance Friday night, Miss Forde became the first woman competitor in the 10-year history of the meet to be named the Most Outstanding athlete.

"I didn't plan to go for the world record," said the 24-year-old Long Island University junior from Barbados, "but I wasn't shocked at the time."

The 5-foot-2, 112-pounder had set the meet mark of 55.1 last year, even while coming from behind. This time, an extremely fast start enabled her to shatter the 54.2 world record set by Charlotte Cooke way back in 1966.

Miss Forde was eliminated in the 200-meter quarterfinals in her second Olympic appearance last year, but she said the disappointment lasted only for a day.

"I don't feel I have anything to prove," she said. "People in my country and here know I'm good, but I just couldn't show the rest of the world that one day."

Frisco Rips Pepperdine, 107-72

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The University of San Francisco's latest show of basketball strength brought out a white flag in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

"They'll go undefeated in the league," predicted Pepperdine Coach Gary Colson after his Waves, defending WCAC champions, lost 107-72 Friday night to the unbeaten and nationally top-ranked Dons.

"They were good last year, but when they've all improved that much—wow!" added Colson. "I could say we just had a bad game, but anybody who watched it wouldn't believe me."

Bill Cartwright, the Dons' 6-foot-11 sophomore center, is no doubt the most improved player on the still-young USF team and he came up with a careerhigh 18 rebounds to go with 24

points Friday night.

Cartwright made 11 of 17 shots from the field, Marlon Redmond hit on 10 of 17 shots in a 20-point performance and James Hardy was 7-for-10 on his 16-point night.

The Dons, 18-0, shot 59 per cent as a team and outrebounded the Waves 63-39 and took sole possession of first place in the WCAC at 3-0 as Santa Clara, with Londale Theus scoring 25 points, handed Loyola its first loss, 79-72, in another WCAC game.

San Jose State got 26 points from Ken Mickey and posted a 67-60 road victory over Pacific in a Pacific Coast Athletic Association opener, the only other major college game on the West Coast.

After six minutes, the Dons held only a 11-10 lead. Cartwright dominated the next four minutes, scoring six points and grabbing several rebounds, and suddenly it was 25-13.

"These guys are proud of the fact they're No. 1," said Coach Bob Gaillard of his players. "I think we're playing up to our potential right now."

As for Cartwright, the coach said that a big reason the 6-11 center had a somewhat disappointing season as a freshman was that he simply gave away too much weight to some opponents.

"He'd make some of the same moves he makes now and get knocked down. It wasn't that he needed to be more aggressive," Gaillard said.

He added that he considered Cartwright's 18 rebounds quite an achievement, "because it's tough getting any with Hardy and Redmond

under there, too."

In other college basketball games Friday night, Jim Wood and Billy Smith combined for 29 points to lead Georgia Tech to a 71-59 victory over St. Louis; Allen Cunningham's 21 points and seven rebounds powered Colorado State over Brigham Young 49-41; Steve Hayes scored 20 points to lead Idaho State to a 73-60 decision over Boise State; Bill Hessing hit five free throws in the final minute to boost Idaho past Gonzaga 68-65; a 42-point performance by Jack Phelan led St. Francis over Duquesne 89-85 in overtime; George Washington defeated Penn State 91-88 in overtime as John Holloran contributed 26 points and John Mollohan's 21 points led West Virginia Tech to a 69-48 triumph over West Liberty.

With AFC and NFC division titles having been played this year in small 50,000-seat stadiums in Minnesota and Oakland, Rozelle said the impending Pro Bowl has added significance. It is a 65,000-seat sellout that will generate about $800,000 in pension money.

Rozelle said he will leave San Diego about the same time as the Pro Bowl squads for Sunday and Monday league meetings in Seattle. Garvey said he is going home to Washington, D.C.

"They took a vote and decided I wasn't invited (to the meetings)," Garvey said sarcastically.

Rozelle said he doesn't anticipate any noteworthy developments at the meetings.

"We'll just lay the groundwork for our meeting in March in Phoenix," he said.

Bowling At A Glance

Prairie Lanes had another big week of pin action with the guys and gals turning in some pretty good work.

Hitting 200 or better single games were: Dan Teal, 211; Phil Stumbo, 227; Ruthe Loew, 205; Bill Ballou, 223; Sue Cooley, 220; Lois Vance, 201; Grace Elliott, 201; Virginia Karshner, 204; Betty Thomas, 200; Jane Stonerock, 207; Fred Hoover, 214; Dana Leach, 202, 209; Dan Ogan, 205; Chuck Henson, 209; Ron Morris, 201, 201; John Lenz, 246; Teddy Fausnaugh, 204; Jo Simons, 200; Jo Lucas, 200; Stella Fausnaugh, 204; George Runkle, 207.

Jane Blalock Leads Triple Crown Golf

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Jane Blalock has had a habit of blowing leads in the past, but she's right where she wants to be after the first round of the 36-hole, $50,000 Triple Crown Golf Tournament—two strokes in front.

"I'm more mature now to take the pressure of the lead," Miss Blalock said after firing a 72 Friday in the opening event of the 1977 LPGA tour. "Plus I have two strokes for error."

Miss Blalock's even-par round over the Mission Hills layout gave her the lead over JoAnne Carner and Jan Stephenson, who had a pair of 74s.

Fighting Saints Hockey Team Folding

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota's professional hockey war may be over for good, following the suspension Friday night of the World Hockey Association's Fighting Saints and the sale of seven top players.

Saints' President Bob Brown said efforts to find new owners would continue, but that he was "not optimistic" that this could be done by next Thursday, the day before the suspension runs out and the Saints are scheduled to play at Houston.

Steve Lobell, a 3-year-old trotter, won $351,950 in 1976 on a 10-5-3 record in 27 starts.

Muhammad Ali Wants Beatles

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali says he's trying to get the Beatles back together for a benefit that would pay for feeding and clothing the poor children of the world," the New York Daily News says.

The newspaper quoted the world heavyweight boxing champ in an exclusive interview as saying he is trying to raise $200 million to establish a permanent international help agency.

"I hope to impress them with the idea that this is money to help people all over the world. All races love the Beatles. I love the music. I used to train to their music."

Kalamazoo Wings Defeat Fort Wayne

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Down by three goals, the Kalamazoo Wings roared back and defeated the Fort Wayne Komets, 6-4, Friday night in Kalamazoo to take over first place in the North Division of the International Hockey League.

In other IHL action, the Flint Generals downed the Saginaw Gears, 7-5, putting them in a tie for second place in the league's North Division. The Toledo Goaldiggers crushed the Muskegon Mohawks, 5-2.

TOUGH GOING ON THE OHIO—Extremely cold weather has slowed tugboat traffic on the Ohio River. The Army Corps of Engineers say ice has formed across the

Energy Bill Stirs State Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The heat Rep. Michael Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, and his House Bill 1213 are feeling isn't from a natural gas fueled boiler. Its coming instead from the state's top energy regulatory and policy agencies.

The bill, passed last year by the legislature, prohibits natural gas suppliers from passing along the cost of emergency gas purchases to residential customers.

It has meant instead that industrial gas users must forecast their emergency needs well before the winter heating season and curtailments and contractually agree to buy a specified amount of gas.

Last year only 78 of Columbia Gas of Ohio's industrial customers contracted for emergency supplies for this heating season and the state Energy and Resource Development Agency and the Public Utilities Commission blame Stinziano's bill for part of the problem.

Both ERDA and PUCO Thursday recommended to Gov. James A. Rhodes that the bill be reconsidered, with PUCO Chairman C. Luther Heckman calling for outright repeal of the law.

The agencies made their recommendations at the request of the governor who has the power to declare an energy crisis during these days of severe natural gas curtailments by Columbia Gas and other gas utilities around the state.

Neither agency suggested Rhodes declare that emergency, but both said that the law in question may be a partial cause for the current shortages.

During the meeting, William G. Ferguson, ERDA board chairman, told fellow board members he feels "We are living in a fool's paradise," concerning public understanding of where energy is coming from and how much it costs to get.

"I don't think this shortage is contrived," he concluded.

Stinziano has said that he thinks the contrary and was on hand Thursday to defend the law as the ERDA board met to consider its response to the governor.

He suggested that the emergency gas problem could be eased, not by repealing or amending his bill, but instead by changing PUCO rate rules.

ERDA staff member Peter Kochman argued to the opposite, saying H.B. 1213 results in industry subsidizing the natural gas needs of residential users and also said it adds considerably to the cost of Ohio-produced goods.

"The value added to products in Ohio industries is extremely energy sensitive," Kochman said.

Despite not recommending a crisis be declared, Heckman warned the governor that he thinks the most dramatic impact of the curtailments is yet to come. He said projected school closings because of the curtailments will probably not occur until March, the last month of the winter heating season.

The chairman expressed surprise in his letter about the "minimal reaction" his agency has received from curtailed customers, claiming most gripes have come from those concerned about chilly classrooms and possible school closings.

Single Sideband Boon To CBers

by DANIEL BEEGAN
Associated Press Writer
There's a way to get away from all the chatter and keep in touch with a Citizens Band radio. It's known as single sideband.

Sideband, which requires a specially equipped radio, uses only one side of a CB channel. Each radio frequency has an upper and lower sideband that suppresses the other side and the carrier.

Because sideband concentrates all the transmitter power on a third of the channel, the effective power of the radio is 12 watts, rather than the 4-watt maximum limit in whole-channel operation.

This means greater range. In many areas, sidebanders can easily talk to their friends 30 miles or more away.

But a sidebander and a CBer in whole-channel operation will interfere with each other if both are on the same frequency.

Because of that problem, CBers in most areas have an informal agreement that channel 16 - sometimes channels 15, 17 or 18 - are reserved for sidebanders.

For most CBers, the major disadvantage of sideband is the cost.

A radio equipped for sideband use costs about $100 more than a fairly expensive radio not built for it. The reason is the additional electronic components in the sideband rig.

But for many, especially the serious hobbyist, the extra cost is worth it.

Many CBers are considering sideband for the first time as they prepare to buy new radios to get the 17 channels added by the Federal Communications Commission to the existing 23-channel band. Now, 10 per cent or so of the millions of CBers operate on sideband.

Radios not equipped for sideband cannot be converted to receive it.

Sideband operation is different from that of regular CBing.

Sidebanders generally avoid the handles, or nicknames, used on regular channels, although most continue to use them when operating there.

Instead, they use their first names and special identification numbers issued by sideband clubs.

The colorful CB jargon is generally not heard on sideband, nor are the "10 codes" adopted from police radio procedures.

Instead, Q codes, based on those used in amateur and marine communications, are used.

For example, in regular operation a CBer will ask for another's location by saying, "What's your 10-20?" A sidebander will say "What's your QTH."

Courtesy is a must for sideband operation, and the talk is much more formal than in traditional operation. It often sounds more like ham radio than CB.

The very reasons that attract some to sideband discourage others.

The truckers' talk, the police reports and the informality are missing.

And for some CBers, that means the fun is gone too.

But if you're carrying on a long distance love affair over CB, sideband's relative privacy might be just the thing for you.

TOUGH GOING ON THE OHIO—Extremely cold weather has slowed tugboat traffic on the Ohio River. The Army Corps of Engineers say ice has formed across the river in several sites as much as three inches thick. This is the scene at Markland dam and locks near Louisville, Ky.

Energy Bill Stirs State Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The heat Rep. Michael Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, and his House Bill 1213 are feeling isn't from a natural gas fueled boiler. Its coming instead from the state's top energy regulatory and policy agencies.

The bill, passed last year by the legislature, prohibits natural gas suppliers from passing along the cost of emergency gas purchases to residential customers.

It has meant instead that industrial gas users must forecast their emergency needs well before the winter heating season and curtailments and contractually agree to buy a specified amount of gas.

Last year only 78 of Columbia Gas of Ohio's industrial customers contracted for emergency supplies for this heating season and the state Energy and Resource Development Agency and the Public Utilities Commission blame Stinziano's bill for part of the problem.

Both ERDA and PUCO Thursday recommended to Gov. James A. Rhodes that the bill be reconsidered, with PUCO Chairman C. Luther Heckman calling for outright repeal of the law.

The agencies made their recommendations at the request of the governor who has the power to declare an energy crisis during these days of severe natural gas curtailments by Columbia Gas and other gas utilities around the state.

Neither agency suggested Rhodes declare that emergency, but both said that the law in question may be a partial cause for the current shortages.

During the meeting, William G. Ferguson, ERDA board chairman, told fellow board members he feels "We are living in a fool's paradise," concerning public understanding of where energy is coming from and how much it costs to get.

"I don't think this shortage is contrived," he concluded.

Stinziano has said that he thinks the contrary and was on hand Thursday to defend the law as the ERDA board met to consider its response to the governor.

He suggested that the emergency gas problem could be eased, not by repealing or amending his bill, but instead by changing PUCO rate rules.

ERDA staff member Peter Kochman argued to the opposite, saying H.B. 1213 results in industry subsidizing the natural gas needs of residential users and also said it adds considerably to the cost of Ohio-produced goods.

"The value added to products in Ohio industries is extremely energy sensitive," Kochman said.

Despite not recommending a crisis be declared, Heckman warned the governor that he thinks the most dramatic impact of the curtailments is yet to come. He said projected school closings because of the curtailments will probably not occur until March, the last month of the winter heating season.

The chairman expressed surprise in his letter about the "minimal reaction" his agency has received from curtailed customers, claiming most gripes have come from those concerned about chilly classrooms and possible school closings.

Single Sideband Boon To CBers

by DANIEL BEEGAN
Associated Press Writer

There's a way to get away from all the chatter and keep in touch with a Citizens Band radio. It's known as single sideband.

Sideband, which requires a specially equipped radio, uses only one side of a CB channel. Each radio frequency has an upper and lower sideband that suppresses the other side and the carrier.

Because sideband concentrates all the transmitter power on a third of the channel, the effective power of the radio is 12 watts, rather than the 4-watt maximum limit in whole-channel operation.

This means greater range. In many areas, sidebanders can easily talk to their friends 30 miles or more away.

But a sidebander and a CBER in whole-channel operation will interfere with each other if both are on the same frequency.

Because of that problem, CBERs in most areas have an informal agreement that channel 16 — sometimes channels 15, 17 or 18 — are reserved for sidebanders.

For most CBERs, the major disadvantage of sideband is the cost.

A radio equipped for sideband use costs about $100 more than a fairly expensive radio not built for it. The reason is the additional electronic components in the sideband rig.

But for many, especially the serious hobbyist, the extra cost is worth it.

Many CBERs are considering sideband for the first time as they prepare to buy new radios to get the 17 channels added by the Federal Communications Commission to the existing 23-channel band.

Now, 10 per cent or so of the millions of CBERs operate on sideband.

Radios not equipped for sideband cannot be converted to receive it.

Sideband operation is different from that of regular CBing.

Sidebanders generally avoid the handles, or nicknames, used on regular channels, although most continue to use them when operating there.

Instead, they use their first names and special identification numbers issued by sideband clubs.

The colorful CB jargon is generally not heard on sideband, nor are the "10 codes" adopted from police radio procedures.

Instead, Q codes, based on those used in amateur and marine communications, are used.

For example, in regular operation a CBER will ask for another's location by saying, "What's your 10-20?" A sidebander will say "What's your QTH."

Courtesy is a must for sideband operation, and the

Colorado Leading Competition

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kathy Gelecinysky of the Broadmoor Skating Club captured the senior ladies title in the Midwestern Figure Skating Championships Friday night as Colorado skaters continued their mastery. She narrowly defeated Edith Dotson and Barbie Smith, both of the Colorado Skating Club of Denver. Gelecinysky won by .62 points over Dotson and .70 over Smith. Charles Tickner of Denver Figure Skating Club strengthened his lead in the senior men's division. The competition at Cincinnati Gardens concludes today.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): In dealings with others, don't resort to brevity or abruptness of speech when full explanations are truly needed. Do your best to really "communicate."

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Especially favored now: personal relationships, avocational interests, travel and cultural interests. A good day!

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Once you know your ideas have good potentialities for success, lose no time in trying to bring them to realization. Good Mercury influences should help you.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If plans prove unfitting, not quite feasible, change them - with no regrets. But do not make drastic changes without cause.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Most endeavors should prosper, but think before you speak or act. Above all, avoid tendencies toward the unorthodox; to extremes in general.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Personal matters may need revising. Look for better answers. A state of readiness needed to cope with the unexpected.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): A day which should lift your spirits considerably. Personal relationships should be highly congenial, with romance accented during the p.m. hours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A good day for planning next week's progress. Be especially astute in mapping out budget requirements. You may be faced with some unforeseen expenses.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Beneficent stellar influences now encourage all your endeavors — especially those along creative lines. An interesting communication indicated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some misunderstandings possible in unexpected areas. Counteract with poise, tact and a sincere desire to clear the air.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Suggestions from friends or business associates could prove valuable now. In leisure time, shun social events which could impose too much of a strain on you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Be careful in whom you confide and respect confidences given you. Some tendencies toward mischief-making prevalent.

YOU BORN TODAY are among the world's most unusual achievers. You have a keen and perceptive mind; are versatile and sensitive; also restless and changeable at times. You have unique ideas which you carry out successfully — IF you do not lose interest or sink into one of your moods of despondency, certain that "nothing matters." Try to curb your tendencies toward introspectiveness and feelings of unworthiness. Try to realize that when the Capricornian is at his best no one can surpass him. You have many talents; could succeed brilliantly as a writer or dramatist; would make an outstanding statesman or diplomat and, as a scientist or teacher, could reach an eminent place in life. Think HIGHLY of yourself and the world will think likewise. Birthdate of Richard Savage, Eng. poet, dramatist.

Privacy Opinion Sought By Krabach

COLUMBUS (AP) — The outgoing director of the Department of Administrative Services has asked Ohio's attorney general to determine whether five traditionally confidential areas should be accessible under the new Privacy Law.

Richard L. Krabach sent the letter Friday to Attorney General William J. Brown, requesting clarification regarding a Jan. 7 memorandum by Brown which would open records long restricted by the state.

He said the records were kept closed "to protect the individual citizen or employer in areas that are traditionally confidential, such as doctor-patient, lawyer-client information."

Krabach wrote Brown: "If we are to follow your recent memorandum literally, then we might conclude that this is all open now."

Krabach said many of his employees who handle millions of records of individuals are concerned because of the harsh penalties under the privacy law

OHIO

Light snow likely tonight. Low 5 below northwest to 10 above southeast. Snow likely east and a chance of flurries west Sunday. High 10 to 15.

NORTHWEST

WEST LAKE SHORE

Occasional snow likely tonight, accumulating 2 or 3 inches by evening. Low tonight near 5 below. A chance of snow flurries Sunday. High near 10. The chance of snow 70 per cent tonight and 50 per cent Sunday.

WEST CENTRAL

CENTRAL

SOUTHWEST

Light snow likely tonight. Low near 5 below. A chance of snow flurries Sunday. High 10 to 15. The chance of snow 60 per cent tonight and 30 per cent Sunday.

SOUTHEAST

Light snow likely tonight and Sunday. Low tonight near 10. High Sunday near 15. The chance of snow 60 per cent tonight and Sunday.

Arctic air headed for Ohio again today with two to three inches of new snow likely to accumulate in the northern part of the state by tonight. Very cold air was spreading rapidly southeastward over the northern plains and upper Mississippi Valley and was moving rapidly southeastward. Low pressure over the upper Great Lakes will cause winds to increase later today and tonight.

It was relatively mild over Ohio Friday compared to recent days. The coldest afternoon highs were at Youngstown, Toledo and Findlay with 26 and a 37 was posted near Ironton in the southeast part of the state.

for releasing information. But, he added, "at the same time they do not wish to withhold from the public whatever should be public knowledge."

Areas currently kept confidential include:

—Records on the incidence of communicable diseases.

—Records on teacher certification which include college transcripts and unverified complaint letters.

—Grant applications to the Ohio Energy Commission which contain proprietary unpatented information.

—State employees records such as subjective evaluations, insurance beneficiaries and home addresses.

—Background investigations maintained on attorneys, doctors and other licensees.

It is the second time Krabach has sought an opinion from the attorney general on the privacy law. Brown turned down his last, in August, saying the request was too general in nature.

The privacy law and how it coincides with Ohio's 1963 Open Records Act is presently under study in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court.

Krabach said Friday that regardless of the outcome of the legal action, a formal opinion by Brown will still be necessary.

Krabach completed two years as DAS director this week. He will be replaced Monday by Richard D. Jackson, who has been serving as Transportation Director.

Carter . . .

4. Hamilton Jordan will "facilitate politically what we agree to do substantively. Politics and government cannot be separated. Hamilton's interests and my interests, and largely our talents, are complementary."

Watson said reports of a power struggle between himself and Jordan immediately after the election were exaggerated.

Powell said all will have equal access to Carter, who has said in the past there will be no White House chief of staff. In general, Powell said, the White House staff will be organized like the "spokes of a wheel" with Carter at the center.

"The point of a management set up like this one is that you do not impede other staffers of equal rank in getting to the president," Powell said.

Both he and Watson said the White House staff will be smaller than it is now. For example, Watson said, he will have a staff of 10 — six professionals and the rest secretaries.

"I think in time we will not have a Domestic Council as it is now constituted," Watson said. He stopped short of saying it will be abolished. Its present head in the Ford administration, Jim Cannon, said he doesn't know whether it could be abolished.

"They don't have to fill the slots, but they can't use the money appropriated for it on other things if they don't," Cannon said.

Watson said the Cabinet might be divided into as many as four "clusters, committees or subgroups" — concerned with the national economy, national security, energy-environment and other domestic affairs.

Subcabinet officers will come to the White House to work on specific projects and then return to the agency, he said. That would reverse Nixon administration proposals to put White House staff workers in the Cabinet departments.

"Our job is to facilitate and expedite things for the Cabinet departments rather than direct them," Watson said.

He envisions a daily meeting of the top White House aides, perhaps attended by Carter on occasion. Richard Moe of the vice presidential staff will be included, Watson said.

He said members of the group know each other well enough to meet without a chairman.

"Maybe in time we will elect one," he said.

Commuter Line Assistance Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — The South Shore commuter rail line is "a precious resource" that must be preserved to avoid more traffic congestion and air pollution in Chicago, the chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority says.

Milton Pikarsky testified here Friday at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing that there is no reasonable alternative to the line from northwest Indiana to Chicago.

South Shore officials have said it would cost $1 million to refurbish their 50-year-old cars and up to $40 million for a thorough rehabilitation of the 88-mile line.

But Pikarsky said, "figures indicate that at last 30 to 100 times that amount would be lost to the region if the service ends."

three natural gas buildings, and two on fuel oil.

According to Benis Lutz, Teays Valley Superintendent, Scioto Twp., and Walnut Twp., are on natural gas, and the Ashville Elementary building is now in natural gas, but has the ability to heat with fuel oil.

"This way we can pool our gas usage, and if either Scioto or Walnut uses too much gas, then we can switch Ashville to fuel oil, but we really don't want to do this if we don't have to."

As of right now, the Teays Valley district is not experiencing problems with fuel oil or gas, and Lutz reports that "we are in reasonably good shape."

Gordon Massie, superintendent of the Westfall School District, reports that the district has been overdrawn on their natural gas supply, and they will probably be overdrawn in January unless there is an upturn in the temperature.

Two buildings in the district are on natural gas, one is electric, one is natural gas and coal, and one is fuel oil and coal. Massie reported that they have been able to get enough coal and fuel oil within the district and should be able to do so in the future if the supplies stay available.

According to John Henn, Superintendent of the Logan Elm Schools, three sites in his district are heated with fuel oil, two are natural gas, and one is electric.

Henn stated that his buildings are heated at 68 degrees, but this also depends on the wind outside. The buildings in the Logan Elm district are shutdown heat-wise one hour before school is dismissed in the evening, so that the building is actually starting to cool for the evening while the students are still in school. The temperature is not uncomfortable while the students are still in the building.

Henn told the Herald that students in the district designed a brochure which outlined various steps that can be taken to conserve energy.

"There have been no notices from the electric company but curtailments, and we have been on a monthly allotment for fuel oil for two years," said Henn. "I am not saying that it is impossible for our schools to close, but I do not see it at this time. If the weather gets worse and we look threatened, we can consider alternate plans for keeping school open."

Area businesses have been affected by the recent bad weather. One area supermarket told the Herald that they are taking steps to conserve energy and avoid a possible future shutdown due to a natural gas cutoff. Starting Sunday the store will have slightly shortened hours, and as of Thursday they had cut the thermostats in their store to 55 degrees, put in additional weather stripping, and reset their automatic door to close quicker. The heat in the storage area had also been turned down to 40 degrees, and all employees in the store were requested to wear proper clothes for those conditions.

Two other Circleville supermarkets reported that as of Thursday they had experienced no problems with heating. Thermostats in both the stores were kept in the neighborhood of 68 degrees.

Two hardware stores in Circleville were checked to see how the sales of "winter items" were progressing.

The hottest sellers were space heaters, with both stores reporting sell-outs at least one time. Close behind the heaters were sales of electrical heat tapes, especially in the last two weeks.

Apparently Pickaway Counties are conscious of energy saving steps, because both stores reported at least one sell-out of weather stripping, and both said that it had been hard to keep in stock all winter. Blankets especially electric ones, were also in demand, although neither store carried the items. Heavy sales were also reported in snow shovels, salt for sidewalks and driveways was sold out once, and had been in high demand all winter. au winter.

Friday morning the weather man showed that he still had no relief for the central Ohio area, as a winter storm dumped three and a half inches of fresh snow in the area by noon, and weather radio was predicting no immediate end to the traveler's advisories and winter storm warnings.

The fact is that people's lives are affected in many different ways by adverse weather such as we have had in recent days. The weather has a bearing on our patterns of movement, our thoughts, and even our spending during such periods.

There is no set system to beat the weather, unless a person has plane tickets to Florida or Hawaii. From the comments of area persons who battle the elements every day, it seems that the best way to beat the weather is to really stay out of it unless you have reason to travel. Streets and walkways are very bad in such conditions, and to possibly beat the energy problem slightly, turn down that thermostat a few degrees, throw on your favorite sweater, and put another log on the fire.

Privacy Opinion Sought By Krabach

COLUMBUS (AP) — The outgoing director of the Department of Administrative Services has asked Ohio's attorney general to determine whether five traditionally confidential areas should be accessible under the new Privacy Law.

Richard L. Krabach sent the letter Friday to Attorney General William J. Brown, requesting clarification regarding a Jan. 7 memorandum by Brown which would open records long restricted by the state.

He said the records were kept closed "to protect the individual citizen or employer in areas that are traditionally confidential, such as doctor-patient, lawyer-client information."

Krabach wrote Brown: "If we are to follow your recent memorandum literally, then we might conclude that this is all open now."

Krabach said many of his employees who handle millions of records of individuals are concerned because of the harsh penalties under the privacy law.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

OHIO

Light snow likely tonight. Low 5 below northwest to 10 above southeast. Snow likely east and a chance of flurries west Sunday. High 10 to 15.

WEST LAKE SHORE

Occasional snow likely tonight, accumulating 2 or 3 inches by evening. Low tonight near 5 below. A chance of snow flurries Sunday. High near 10. The chance of snow 70 per cent tonight and 50 per cent Sunday.

WEST CENTRAL

SOUTHWEST

Light snow likely tonight. Low near 5 below. A chance of snow flurries Sunday. High 10 to 15. The chance of snow 60 per cent tonight and 30 per cent Sunday.

SOUTHEAST

Light snow likely tonight and Sunday. Low tonight near 10. High Sunday near 15. The chance of snow 60 per cent tonight and Sunday.

Arctic air headed for Ohio again today with two to three inches of new snow likely to accumulate in the northern part of the state by tonight. Very cold air was spreading rapidly southeastward over the northern plains and upper Mississippi Valley and was moving rapidly southeastward. Low pressure over the upper Great Lakes will cause winds to increase later today and tonight.

It was relatively mild over Ohio Friday compared to recent days. The coldest afternoon highs were at Youngstown, Toledo and Findlay with 26 and a 37 was posted near Ironton in the southeast part of the state.

County Recorder Lists 1976 Report

The office of Pickaway County Recorder Hazel M. Yeatts processed a total of 4200 recordings during 1976.

The recording consisted of 1650 deeds, 1514 real estate mortgages in the amount of $54,268,059.46 and 1036 miscellaneous recordings.

A total of 1068 real estate mortgages were cancelled involving money in the amount of $29,511,223.86.

The office also filed and processed 2413 financing statements.

A total of 327 recordings were processed during the month of December. They consisted of 132 deeds, 96 real estate transfers involving $3,796,699.01 and 99 miscellaneous recordings.

There were 54 real estate mortgages cancelled with money in the amount of $1,628,085.27 and 210 financing statements were filed and processed.

Motorist Dies Of Heart Attack

Ernest S. Minor, 61, Route 2, died of an apparent heart attack Friday while driving his car north on Route 104.

The car was found at 1:06 p.m. in a snowbank by Richard Draize, 328 E. Mount St., a state highway employee.

The Scioto Twp. emergency squad was called to the scene but could find no life signs of Mr. Minor. The incident was investigated by Trooper Fred Summers of the Ohio State Highway Patrol.

Snow And Cold . . .

three natural gas buildings, and two on fuel oil.

According to Benis Lutz, Teays Valley Superintendent, Scioto Twp., and Walnut Twp., are on natural gas, and the Ashville Elementary building is now in natural gas, but has the ability to heat with fuel oil.

"This way we can pool our gas usage, and if either Scioto or Walnut uses too much gas, then we can switch Ashville to fuel oil, but we really don't want to do this if we don't have to."

As of right now, the Teays Valley district is not experiencing problems with fuel oil or gas, and Lutz reports that "we are in reasonably good shape."

Gordon Massie, superintendent of the Westfall School District, reports that the district has been overdrawn on their natural gas supply, and they will probably be overdrawn in January unless there is an upturn in the temperature.

Two buildings in the district are on natural gas, one is electric, one is natural gas and coal, and one is fuel oil and coal. Massie reported that they have been able to get enough coal and fuel oil within the district and should be able to do so in the future if the supplies stay available.

According to John Henn, Superintendent of the Logan Elm Schools, three sites in his district are heated with fuel oil, two are natural gas, and one is electric.

Henn stated that his buildings are heated at 68 degrees, but this also depends on the wind outside. The buildings in the Logan Elm district are shutdown heat-wise one hour before school is dismissed in the evening, so that the building is actually starting to cool for the evening while the students are still in school. The temperature is not uncomfortable while the students are still in the building.

Henn told the Herald that students in the district designed a brochure which outlined various steps that can be taken to conserve energy.

"There have been no notices from the electric company but curtailments, and we have been on a monthly allotment for fuel oil for two years," said Henn. "I am not saying that it is impossible for our schools to close, but I do not see it at this time. If the weather gets worse and we look threatened, we can consider alternate plans for keeping school open."

Area businesses have been affected by the recent bad weather. One area supermarket told the Herald that they are taking steps to conserve energy and avoid a possible future shutdown due to a natural gas cutoff. Starting Sunday the store will have slightly shortened hours, and as of Thursday they had cut the thermostats in their store to 55 degrees, put in additional weather stripping, and reset their automatic door to close quicker. The heat in the storage area had also been turned down to 40 degrees, and all employees in the store were requested to wear proper clothes for those conditions.

Two other Circleville supermarkets reported that as of Thursday they had experienced no problems with heating. Thermostats in both the stores were kept in the neighborhood of 68 degrees.

Two hardware stores in Circleville were checked to see how the sales of "winter items" were progressing.

The hottest sellers were space heaters, with both stores reporting sell-outs at least one time. Close behind the heaters were sales of electrical heat tapes, especially in the last two weeks.

Apparently Pickaway Counties are conscious of energy saving steps, because both stores reported at least

Commuter Line Assistance Urged

CHICAGO (AP) — The South Shore commuter rail line is "a precious resource" that must be preserved to avoid more traffic congestion and air pollution in Chicago, the chairman of the Regional Transportation Authority says.

Milton Pikarsky testified here Friday at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing that there is no reasonable alternative to the line from northwest Indiana to Chicago.

South Shore officials have said it would cost $1 million to refurbish their 50-year-old cars and up to $40 million for a thorough rehabilitation of the 88-mile line.

But Pikarsky said, "figures indicate that at last 30 to 100 times that amount would be lost to the region if the service ends."

one sell-out of weather stripping, and both said that it had been hard to keep in stock all winter. Blankets especially electric ones, were also in demand, although neither store carried the items. Heavy sales were also reported in snow shovels, salt for sidewalks and driveways was sold out once, and had been in high demand all winter.

Friday morning the weather man showed that he still had no relief for the central Ohio area, as a winter storm dumped three and a half inches of fresh snow in the area by noon, and weather radio was predicting no immediate end to the traveler's advisories and winter storm warnings.

The fact is that people's lives are affected in many different ways by adverse weather such as we have had in recent days. The weather has a bearing on our patterns of movement, our thoughts, and even our spending during such periods.

There is no set system to beat the weather, unless a person has plane tickets to Florida or Hawaii. From the comments of area persons who battle the elements every day, it seems that the best way to beat the weather is to really stay out of it unless you have reason to travel. Streets and walkways are very bad in such conditions, and to possibly beat the energy problem slightly, turn down that thermostat a few degrees, throw on your favorite sweater, and put another log on the fire.
